VIRTUE LIBERTY INDEPENDENCE

VOL. LXXXVI. CENTRE HALL, PA., THURSDAY, MARCH 13, 1913. NO. 11

THE SENATE CHANGES.

Democratic Ascendency in the United States Senate is well Assured for Several Years.

How wide has been the political revolution of the past two and a half years is shown by a comparison of the roll of Senators at the end of 1910 with the roll of the Senate made up on March 4 At the earlier date there were 59 Republicans, 32 Democrats and one vacancy. In the new Senate there are 49 Democrats, 44 Republicans and three vacancies.

Including two States, Arizona and New Mexico, that have come into the Union since 1910, there have been changes in the Senatorial representation from eighteen States. Arizona sends two Democrats and New Mexico sends two Republicans. This fact is especially interesting, because the Republicans kept New Mexico out of the Union for many years lest it should send two Democrats. The effort, strongly backed by Theodore Roosevelt, to admit the two as one State rested on the hope that the Republican voters of Arizona would swamp the Democratic voters of New Mexico.

Colorado, which had one Democratic Senator, now has two. Delaware had none, and now has one. Indiana had one, and now has two. Kansas had none, and now has one Democrat The same is true of Maine. From Maryland there is only one Democrat instead of two, but another Democrat will come next year. Missouri has two Democrats instead of one. Montana had no Democrat, and now has two. Nebraska had none, and now has one. Nevada had one, and now has two. New Jersey has changed two Republican Senators to two Democrats. New York had no Democrat, and now has one. North Dakota had one Democrat, and now sends two Republicans. Ohio had no Democrat, and now has one. Oregon had one, and now has two Democrats. West Virginia had no Democratic Senator, and now has one.

Of the three vacancies, two from Illinois and one from New Hampshire, the Democrats will get one, and possibly two. Next year they will get a Senator from Maryland, and two years hence there is hardly a doubt that they will replace the Republican from Kentucky with a Democrat. Democratic ascendency in the Senate is well assured for several years.

LOCALS

One of Centre Hall's needs: a play ground.

Paints and varnishes, all kinds—Goodhart.

Samuel Shoop has his new home on church street about completed and will occupy it in a short time.

Twins were born to Mr. and Mrs. Orie Smeltzer. The pair are a boy and a girl, and, of course, the parents are very proud of them.

All the hotels except the Central, in Philipsburg, were granted licenses by Judge Orvis. William H. Hindle is proprietor of this hotel.

Brisbin & Company, lumbermen, continue to cut some nice timber on the Wolf tract, on Egg Hill. A stick sawed the other day was twelve inches square and thirty feet long.

Former Sheriff Cyrus Brungart is devoting considerable time to spraying fruit trees. He uses a hand power sprayer, but with the assistance of a man he is able to do very thorough work.

Owing to the fact that the president of the borough council was out of town, that body did not hold a meeting on Friday night of last week, the regular time for the monthly meeting. Mr. Daup, at the time stated, was in Lewisburg, as a delegate to the United Evangelical Conference.

Mercantile Appraiser R. W. Young was in Centre Hall the latter part of last week, calling on business men in his official capacity. He thinks Centre a pretty big county when one is obliged to travel to all points in it when sales are made of the character that the seller becomes subject to a mercantile tax.

C. A. Weaver, who about three years ago moved from Coburn to Illinois, and later to New Kenzington, in the Pittsburg district, came to Centre county on Monday, and will again become a citizen of Coburn. His family will be here in a short time. Mr. Weaver will devote his time to the sale of aluminum ware, having secured the territory covering the south side of Centre county.

Charles B. Neff, west of Old Fort, is reaping the benefits of the silo. A large quantity of corn was put into a silo last summer, and this winter Mr. Neff is keeping a dozen or more cows in good flow of milk by judiciously feeding the ensilage, cotton meal and grain. His herd of cows is in fine condition, and proving profitable, the cost of production of milk being much less than producing it without the ensilage.

DUTCHMAN WORKS TRICK.

Passes as a Road Contractor and Beats a Number of Short Acquaintances at Laurelton.

The Lewisburg Journal in a two column article tells how a Pennsylvania Dutchman worked a trick on a number of short acquaintances about Laurelton. The swindler gave his name as G. Myers, and said he came from Berwick. He claimed he had the contract to build the old Lewisburg and Old Fort turnpike between Laurelton and Woodward. He deposited a draft for $32,000 in the Mifflinburg Farmers' Bank, but, as he put it, it would require some time to have the cash transferred, and in the meantime he would be obliged to borrow from his friends, and he did so. The new friends he made nearly tumbled over each other to accommodate him during the period the contractor claimed to be short.

Myers told some wonderful tales. He stated that he had seventy-five horses weighing 1400 to 1600 pounds; carts and wagons, a twelve ton roller, crushers, and a wonderful manager, Mr. "Boots" Two hundred Italians had been engaged to go to work on the job according to Meyers.

Meyers made ample preparation for the work on the road. His first draw was to order 12,000 feet of lumber from James K. Reish, the lumberman, and set to work a lot of carpenters to construct a large stable to house his horses. Merchant Pursley ordered a car load of tar paper roofing in order to catch the trade of the "contractor", and John J. Showalter, with the same thing in mind, secured a car load of buckwheat coal to be used in the crusher engine.

Mr. Pursley also accompanied the "contractor" to Freeburg, where the latter bought a horse, giving his check in payment, but borrowed cash from Mr. Pursley. He also borrowed cash from every one he thought safe to make demand on.

The landlord at Laurelton was Myers' undoing, because he had told him some stories that did not fit concerning Jersey Shore. He became a doubting Thomas. The Mifflinburg bank also began making inquiry about the drafts, and they proved worthless.

When hailed about the drafts, Meyers said "Boots must have made a mistake in the names of the banks" in which he had his cash, but it was only a short time thereafter until he boarded a train at Mifflinburg, without leaving word as to his destination.

Pine Grove Mills

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sunday spent Saturday in Bellefonte.

Miss Bertha Dietrich, of Bellefonte, spent Sunday with Miss Leoda Decker.

Mr. and Mrs. John Myers spent several days last week with relatives in Centre Hall.

Capt. W. H. Fry was among those who attended the inauguration of President Wilson last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Sunday, of Fair Brook, spent Sunday at the Everts home on Water street.

Miss Maude Decker returned home on Wednesday after spending several weeks in Altoona.

Miss Florence Musser returned to her home in Freeport, Illinois, after spending five weeks here with her aunt, Mrs. Clara Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. George Koch, of Boalsburg, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Kochs parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Keller, on Main street.

MURRAY & BITNER SUCCESS

Great Popularity of Plan to Sell Medicine at Half-Price and Guarantee a Cure.

Murray & Bitner the enterprising druggist rather than await the ordinary methods of introduction, urged the Dr. Howard Co, to secure a quick sale for their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia by offering the regular 50c bottle at half price.

In addition to selling a 50c bottle of Dr. Howard's specific for 25c Murray & Bitner have so much faith in the Remedy that they will refund the money to anyone whom it does not cure.

When your head aches your stomach does not digest food easily and naturally when there is constipation, specks before the eyes, tired feeling, giddiness, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, heart burn, sour stomach, roaring or ringing in the ears, melancholy, and liver troubles Dr. Howard's specific will cure you. If it does not it will not cost you a cent.

This latest achievement of science is of great value in curing sick headache. Thousands of women are to day free from that painful disease solely through the use of this specific.

Uncle Tom's Cabin will be at Garman's opera house on Friday evening. You will want to see it, of course.

"DRY" BUTLER COUNTY.

Judge Galbraith Says Hotel Men Have Not Shown Necessity for a Single Bar.

Liquor forces met their Waterloo in Butler county on Friday when, interpreting the Brooks law as having a real local option principle, Judge James M. Galbraith refused the twenty-eight retail and two wholesale applications for liquor license. The judge held that the question of necessity of a single place to sell liquor in the county had not been proven under the method set forth in section seven of the law.

Hotel men were stunned by the decision and are debating closing their hotels. Only two licenses were held in the county the past year, one at Zelienople and the other at Evans City, all others having been refused for alleged law violation. The "drys" are jubilating tonight and will hold a monster mass meeting soon.

Ousting of the saloons is traced directly to the evangelistic campaign a year ago, when thousands of voters got off the fence and came out boldly against the open bars.

Judge Galbraith declares that the law requiring that the court have due regard for the number and character of the petitioners for and against the necessity of license left him no other course to pursue. He reviews the testimony of more than 100 prominent citizens against the necessity of a place of obtaining intoxicating liquors, comments on their views of better order and better morals with license and declares that even were a manufacturing plant injured by a "dry" community it could not influence his decision. He holds that the amount and character of the demand for liquor in any neighborhood is to be determined by the people in that neighborhood, thus reading a clear local option element into the Brooks law. More than 11,000 persons signed the remonstrances and of these 5000 were voters.

Judge Galbraith scored hotel men for asserting they cannot run hotels without a license and declared the eaters and lodgers should pay for the value of the service instead of having a part of the expense borne by purchasers of liquor.

"The hotel must be run as a business distinct from the bar," said the court.

HUNTINGDON DRY, TOO.

All Licenses Against Which Remonstrances Were Filed Refused by Judge Woods.

In a written decision President Judge J. M. Woods refused all applicants for liquor license in Huntingdon county, except that of H. V. and W. K. Shaffner, of Orbisonia, against which no remonstrances had been filed or other opposition entered.

The decision was a surprise, as it is said Huntingdon hotel men had been told by Associate Judge Harris Richardson that all applications in the county seat had been granted.

The decision is signed only by Judge Woods, but it is not considered likely that the associate judge's opposition to the ruling, if there be such opposition, will have any weight or legal standing.

The licenses in Huntingdon county expire April 1 and after that date there will be only one saloon in the county. A total of ten applicants had been filed, five retail and two wholesale applications in the county seat alone.

Berry to be U. S. Treasurer.

It will be highly gratifying to the large majority of Democrats in Pennsylvania to learn that William H. Berry, former state treasurer, is likely to be appointed United States treasurer, with a salary of $8000 per year.

Charles R. Kurtz, of Bellefonte, is well in line for the position of surveyor of the port of Philadelphia, a place he has sought since Democratic success in the nation. His appointment is very likely.

"Tidbits 25 Cents a Copy.

A copy of "Tidbits" or Scraps for the Scrapbook, in both prose and verse issued by the West Bay Publishing company, Cleveland, O, reached the Reporter's desk. The booklet contains a hundred pages of most interesting reading matter from various authors and numerous sources and its perusal is a genuine delight. The price is 25 cents a copy by mail and it is worth it and more.

The question of increasing the salaries of the members of the legislature is to be pushed at the present session by Representative Carter, of Pittsburg. He is having a bill prepared to provide a salary of $2,000 for each member, with weekly mileage allowance to and from their homes. This is an increase of $500 in salary. At present, mileage is allowed only for one trip.

Keep in mind that Friday and Saturday a Farmers' Institute will be held at Spring Mills. Every farmer who possibly can do so should attend every session.

LETTERS FROM SUBSCRIBERS.

S. G. Shannon Dwells on Reminiscences of Early Years in Centre Hall.

Editor of the Reporter:

I have been thinking it was about time for me to remit something to help along the good work you are doing. I herewith send you a small check ($3.00) I know you will fix the account right.

It affords me much pleasure to look over the paper every week but there is a sense of loneliness comes over me when I read of the many old friends who are leaving this shore. I would like to take a walk over the old stamping ground once more, but I fear I shall never have that pleasure. I just saw the light of day about one mile east of Centre Hall, on what was known as the Robert Pennington place. My earliest recollections of an old man was of "Daddy Bowersox," and Robert Pennington, and the first black man I ever saw was "George Blake," who used to drive six horses in a wagon with the old style English bed, or body. He was a kind hearted black man, entirely trustworthy, and you never saw a prouder man than he was when he would mount the saddle horse, and crack the big black leather whip above his head. I used to think the horses understood just what he said for they seemed at least to do just what he wanted them to do; well now, just think that was away back when they had bells on the horses' harness. To see George Blake, with his six horses, with bells on, and the big English wagon bed, coming along was as inspiring as a brass band of today. Your scribe can recall those days readily, and the names of the men that lived in that day were such as David Mitchell, Eli Crowther, Robert McClellan, George Harpster, David Felmalee, John Keller, Andrew Gregg, Alexander Kerr, Uriah Slack, Samuel Davis, Michael Wieland, Peter Ruble, and a score more. But why should I go back over this list? It only increases the loneliness, and will bring sadness to other hearts, who are still living, and think back over the past.

We live in the present, and must think, talk, and work in the present. How much more we enjoy than what our fathers did They never saw a trolley car, never heard a phonograph. Many of them never saw a steam engine, or heard of a telephone. Now we live in an age of wireless telegraphy, flying machines, etc. What a blessing it is to live in this age.

But when I started I only wanted to say I herewith enclose my check for a certain amount then stop, but the tempation to write about bygone days was too strong. Forgive me this time I will not write so much next time.

Your old friend and your father's friend,

(Rev.) S. G. SHANNON.

Norwood, March 8.

I am sending you a few lines to tell of the very nice winter we have had at Orangeville, Illinois. We have had fair sleighing, but it looks very much as though warmer weather would come and take away the snow.

The first of March in Illinois is like the first of April in Pennsylvania. That is moving time, and there was a great deal of it done among the farmers. Those who moved are pretty well settled now and are preparing for spring work. Sales also come a month earlier here than in Pennsylvania. There was one every day during February in this locality. Cattle, horses and hogs are selling very high. Cows sold for $127, horses for $230, and brood sows for from $25 to $40.

We are confidently expecting a good administration through President Wilson, and we believe he will also practice economy wherever possible to do so.

I am sending you an obituary notice of my uncle, David O. Price, which please publish.

Very truly,

J. H. JORDAN.

Orangeville, Ill., March 8th.

State College Will Get $75,000.

During the last hours of Congress the bill providing for an appropriation of $75,000 for a Federal building at State College was passed, and later was signed by President Taft. Just when the money will become available is not known, but State College, some day, will get a Federal building. Centre county never got next to the pork barrel heretofore.

Lewisburg passed a dog-tax ordinance, providing for taxing male dogs one dollar and females two dollars each, the tax to be paid before July 1st of each year. A similar ordinance in Centre Hall would enrich the borough treasury by about one hundred dollars per year.

The sum of $19,000 was paid by the Jennings Brothers, the Buffalo (New York) stockmen for the [illegible] Hayes property, just north of Bellefonte, and comprising twenty-six acres.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS

Dainty Easter cards and Easter post cards at the Reporter office.

Religious services will be held in the Pine Stump school house Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. Hackenburg, of Potters Mills, will be employed by J. H. McCool, near Centre Hill, on his farm.

The weather has gotten back to the moderate kind, just what the man holding a public sale had been wishing for.

Clay W. Reesman, of Thorofare, N. J., on his way to Pittsburg, stopped at Centre Hall last Saturday and remained until Monday.

The State College Times says scarlet fever broke out in that town among the students, but the physicians hope to prevent an epidemic.

Thursday evening of last week, Miss Nancy Yeager, of near Centre Hall, lost a gray double shawl. The finder will please notify this office, or the owner.

Howard I. Foust, who for two years farmed the McCool place, between Centre Hill and Tusseyville, will move onto the Strohm farm, at Centre Hill, now owned by J. C. Goodhart.

In another column appears a letter from Rev. S. G. Shannon, of Norwood. Rev. Shannon is now engaged in the real estate business and holds a notary public appointment and is also a justice of the peace.

Last Thursday was an exceptionally stormy day. In the forenoon there were frequent blizzards, and by night mercury hugged the zero point pretty closely. During Thursday night the thermometer registered two above.

Rev. Edward Zachman, of Ohio, will today be officially received as a member of West Susquehanna Classis of the Reformed church, and as pastor of the Nittany Valley Reformed charge The Classis is in session in Howard.

Reuben Garis was accompanied to his home from Altoona by Stephen Derosky, and remained here from Saturday until Monday. The former is employed in the boiler shops and the latter in the blacksmith shops of the Altoona car works.

The Centre Hall planing mill is kept busy these days. Two of the members of the firm are building dwelling houses for themselves, and expect to occupy them by April 1st, and this work together with the custom work on the mill is making them hustle.

The appropriation committee of the house of representatives visited Pennsylvania State College last Friday, and inspected all the buildings, the purpose being to get a better idea of the needs of the institution. The senate committee made a similar visit there a short time ago.

Madisonburg and Woodward, provided the present plans are carried out, after July 1st, will have but one mail delivery each day, instead of the two mails now serving those localities. This has been the Hichcock method of economy—lessening the efficiency of the mail services to make it appear that his department has been run on business principles.

Mrs Phoebe Brungart is probably the oldest lady in Brush Valley. She lives in Rebersburg, and a short time ago celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday. Millheim also has a lady who has attained her eighty-seventh year, and her birthday found her in a most cheerful frame of mind. Reference is made to Mrs. Lydia Musser, who before marriage was Miss Strohm, an aunt of the late James B. Strohm, of Centre Hall.

A new insurance firm was organized in Tyrone by James L. P. Gregg and A. A. Vincent, who are representing "The Girard Fire and Marine Insurance Company", of Philadelphia. Mr. Gregg was in Centre Hall on Saturday, but he was here more in the interest of the Misses Gregg, of Milesburg, than the insurance business. He has become manager of the Gregg farms, west of Centre Hall, and leased both of them—the one to George B. Slack and the other to William S. Walker, the latter living on an adjoining farm.

One of the prettiest homes in Spring Mills is just being completed, and was erected by Jacob C. Lee, the station agent at that point. The location is east of the railroad station, where Mr. Lee owns several building lots. The structure is of buff brick, made by the Centre Clay and Brick Company, at Orviston, and is the only structure of that class of material on the south side of Centre county. The interior is finished in natural oak on the first floor and chestnut on the second. The exterior architecture presents a fine appearance, and the interior is conveniently arranged.

FIRE PREVENTION.

Recently New York had a "fire prevention day." Officials and insurance companies co-operated to give demonstrations of the various methods of safeguarding property and particularly of avoiding fires by the observance of the laws and the exercise of care on the part of those in charge of property. This educational work should be continued without interruption. Every city should undertake to teach the people the truth that fire is a needless waste and if every one is careful there is no occasion whatever for these visitations. In the case of wires and pipes causing the ignition of woodwork, the blame is to be placed upon those who are responsible for the construction or the maintenance of the building. It is possible now to protect all electric wires so that they cannot cause the heating of adjacent materials and all forms of heating apparatus can be similarly covered so that they are innocuous. By keeping matches stored in tin boxes and out of the reach of children they are eliminated as a possible cause for fire. The fire loss in any city would be materially reduced if every person were careful in throwing away a match after igniting it or in casting aside burning cigar or cigarette stumps, says the Washington Star. Careful attention to greasy waste will prevent spontaneous combustion. Common sense in the kitchen will eliminate the danger of gasoline or oil explosions.

The Palestine exploration fund has made very interesting contributions to history. A press dispatch states that Messrs. Mackensec and McAllister, working under the auspices of this organization, have unearthed the ancient city of Bethshemesh, about 30 miles from Jerusalem, which was the city of the tribe of Judah and allotted to the priests. Bethshemesh figured in early Jewish history in connection with the calamity that befell its inhabitants on account of their irreverent handling of the ark.

The number of deaths among aviators is larger than it was because the number of aviators and the number of trips are larger. Really the rate of mortality in aviation is undergoing steady reduction. European statisticians assert that last year's deaths of aviators averaged only one for each one hundred thousand miles of air flight, whereas the rate was one for each one thousand miles of flight as recently as three years ago.

Half a century ago the world was amazed by the discovery of spectrum analysis, which gave astronomers an opportunity to determine the physical composition of distant stars. Professor Wood of the department of experimental physics, has just discovered a new aid to investigations of this character — photographs taken by means of rays of light invisible to the human eye—the ultra-violet ray, the infra-red.

A cadet has been dropped from West Point and a student from Yale for getting married before graduation. The marrying instinct prevails sometimes over the higher education. But possibly the young benedicts will not be so strong for the connubial tendency after a few years' experience of marriage before education is completed.

An amateur hunter in Maine who killed a companion in mistake for a deer has been ordered to pay $500 as a fine to the orphan son of his victim. After a while amateur hunters will be complaining of the prohibitive fines which will put the chance of making such mistakes out of the reach of the deserving poor among hunters.

Despite reports of the continued killing of hunters and guides, under the impression that they were deer, an official statement from the Adirondacks is that 7,650 deer were killed in that region, and not a single guide or fellow hunter. Deduce as suits your taste whether this implies better aim or worse.

A college professor now declares that love of the romantic or clinging vine type is no good. Neither may suit college professors, but both have been in use long before college professors were thought of, and possibly will be found in the ring after theories of love have changed fashion.

A football star attempted to kidnap a Pennsylvania girl whom he had unsuccessfully courted and landed in jail. Probably he will have a chance now to compare the bars of the jail with those of a gridiron.

When Mr. Edison produces that talking moving picture will not most of the silent charm of the movies disappear? How many have wished that "ranters" were compelled to appear only in the movies?

EXPLOSION BLOWS MEN TO ATOMS

Dynamite Ship Explodes Off Curtis Bay, Md.

26 DEAD, 20 MISSING, 60 HURT.

New Collier Jason Riddled—Captain Vandyke and Mate Diggs, Of the Atlantic, Give Their Lives For Others.

Baltimore.—At least 26 persons were killed, 20 are missing, and more than 60 were injured in an explosion of 350 tons of dynamite, following a fire on board the British tramp steamer Alum Chine, in the harbor off Fort Carroll.

The 20 missing are thought to have gone down with the Alum Chine. Many of the stevedores were known only by numbers, and it is feared their names will never be known.

There were also a number of negroes who were believed to have been around the Alum Chine and barges looking for work who are believed to have been caught by the hail of death.

The disaster caused a damage which is estimated at $150,000.

New Collier Jason Riddled By Debris.

The brand new collier Jason, which had but recently been completed by the Maryland Steel Company and which was to have been turned over to the United States Government in a few days, was riddled by huge fragments of steel and iron catapulted from the steamer Alum Chine, bringing death to several members of the crew of the collier and working terrible havoc to the ship itself.

The Jason is valued at $1,000,000, but it is not thought that the loss to her will amount to more than $10,000. Work of restoration will take some months, however, necessitating a long delay before the vessel is turned over to the Government. Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels has notified the company that the builders must be responsible for the loss. The company sent a letter to the Secretary regretting the loss of life. The head of the navy promises to make a full investigation.

Steamer Rent Into a Thousand Pieces.

The Alum Chine was itself rent into a thousand pieces by her death-dealing cargo. The ship leaped into the air. Then there came a crash and a flare, fragments of iron, steel, woodwork and cases that had contained the explosive were hurled hundreds of feet into the air and the ship—or what was left of her—sank beneath the waters.

The Atlantic Transport tug Atlantic, the crew of which heroically attempted to save the men on the steamer and the stevedores who were at work on the barge beside it, was caught in the path of destruction and burned to the water's edge, her captain, William Vandyke, and her mate, Henry M. Diggs, paying for their bravery with their death. The loss of the Alum Chine is placed at $50,000 and that of her cargo at $7,000. The Atlantic was valued at $5,000. A car float, which was near the steamer, turned turtle and disappeared from view. Its loss is placed at $1,000.

Quarantine Hospital Suffers Heavily.

The Quarantine Hospital at Wagner's Point suffered heavily from the shock and the explosion. Every window in the building was shattered and doors were torn from their fastenings. Patients at the hospital were hurt by falling glass.

Those who were witnesses of the scene describe the explosion simply as a roar and a flash—a roar, they say, such as has never been heard before and a flash that mounted seemingly hundreds of feet in the sky. The fragments of steel and iron fell like meteors into the harbor, bringing death and injury and terror to all who were within range.

BRYAN BEATS WILSON AT EARLY WORKING.

Secretary Of State Ready To See Callers At Work Before 8.10 A. M.

Washington.—Secretary of State William J. Bryan is going President Wilson one better when it comes to early rising. The Nebraskan is up with the sun, breakfasts at his hotel and by a few minutes after 8 receives callers. By 9.35 he is ready for routine work, having disposed of personal callers before coming to the office.

TO RUN $300,000,000 SUBWAY.

Interborough's Contract Approved By New York Commission.

New York.—The Public Service Commission approved the much-opposed operating contracts with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company for the city's new $300,000,000 subway system. The vote was three to two, Chairman McCall voting in the affirmative.

TURKS SUPRISED FORTRESS FALLS

32,000 Turks Surrender to the Greeks.

A TERRIFIC ATTACK MADE.

Greek Commanders, By a Feint To Right, Distract the Turks and Then Surprise Them.

Athens, Greece.—The Turkish fortress of Janina, the key to the possession of the province of Epirus, with its garrison of 32,000 men, surrendered to the Greek Army after a defense which forms one of the most brilliant episodes of the Balkan War.

The surrender was preceded by a fierce bombardment, lasting without cessation for two days and two nights. Every available gun, including a number of heavy Howitzers lent by the Servian artillery, was brought to bear on the forts defending the beleagured city.

No fewer than 30,000 shells were fired by the Greek guns during the first day's cannonade. Gradually the Turkish batteries at Bizani, Manoliara, Sakni and elsewhere were silenced.

A Complete Surprise.

The Greek commanders by a feint led the Turks to believe that their attack would be made from the right. As soon as the attention of the defenders had been distracted the Greeks hurled large bodies of infantry onto the Turkish left. The Ottoman troops, utterly surprised, fell back in disorder.

The batteries on the heights of Bizani, the mainstay of the defense, had been unable to stand the pelting of the shells and were reduced to complete silence.

The Greeks pushed their forward movement during the afternoon and occupied the Turkish batteries on the Sakni and Elas hills, capturing all the guns and 110 artillerymen. Then the Greek battalions gradually deployed onto the plain in front of the city itself.

The Turkish flight immediately became general, despite all the efforts of the Ottoman officers to rally their men. Whole detachments succumbed to panic and joined in a mad race into the city. The Greek troops followed in hot pursuit almost to the walls.

The Capitulation.

With all the defending batteries in the hands of the Greeks and the Hellenic soldiers at the gates of Janina, Essaad Pasha, the Turkish commander, sent messengers under a flag of truce to Crown Prince Constantine of Greece announcing the surrender of the city and all the troops under his command.

The fall of Janina was announced by the Crown Prince to the Greek War Office in the following dispatch:

"Enimaga (Greek headquarters), 6 A. M. The Greek army having occupied the entire left front of the city of Janina and also Bizani, and Castritza having been surrounded by our troops, Essaad Pasha has just informed me that his troops surrendered as prisoners of war.

"I will send you shortly details of the great victory of our gallant army."

Wild enthusiasm reigned in the streets of Athens on the announcement of the news. All the houses were decorated with flags. Excited people thronged the thoroughfares singing the Greek national anthem, while joyous peals rang out from every church steeple in the capital.

EMILIO MADERO SAFE.

Succeeded After Much Trouble In Getting Into Texas.

San Antonio, Tex.—Emilio Madero, reported dead half a dozen times, and Raoul Madero, brothers of the late president of Mexico, after a 600-mile horseback ride, from Torreon, Mex., to Marathon, Tex., where they crossed the border, reached San Antonio. Twice during the journey they were attacked.

A NEW POLICY TOWARD MEXICO

Precautions to Be Taken to Avoid Friction on Border.

GENERAL OJEDA APOLOGIZES

Brigadier General Bliss, Commanding the Department Of the South, Ordered To Make a Tour Of Inspection.

Washington.—Indications that no immediate or sweeping changes in the foreign policy of the United States are in contemplation were afforded when Secretary Bryan, without much qualification, approved the letters and instructions by wire that went out to the American representatives abroad in countries where stirring events are happening. It is true that generally this was routine business, but yet it was inferred by the officials of lesser rank than the Secretary that President Wilson intends to make a careful study of all the data to be presented to him by Secretary Bryan before making any radical changes in existing policies.

It became known that without abating this government's claim to the right to maintain an effective army patrol along the Mexican border, the new administration intends to use every proper means to avoid friction with the Mexicans across the line. In line with the disposition to advise President Wilson and Secretary Bryan of the condition along the border, Brigadier General Tasker H. Bliss, commanding the Southern Department of the Army, with headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, was ordered to make a tour of inspection.

General Ojeda, commander of the Mexican federals, has expressed regret to American consular officers at Nogales for the recent clashes with American troops near Douglas, Ariz. General Ojeda assured the officers that he would adopt means to prevent further trouble and has ordered the Mexican patrol withdrawn from where the outbreaks occurred.

SUFFRAGE GETS SETBACK.

Massachusetts and Maine Turn Down Proposed Amendment.

Boston.—The cause of woman suffrage received a setback in two New England legislatures.

After several spirited hearings participated in by prominent men and women a committee in the Massachusetts legislature voted to report "leave to withdraw" on a bill providing for a referendum on a constitutional amendment which would eliminate the word "male" from the provision defining the qualifications of a voter.

Six members of the committee voted against suffrage, three for it and two were not recorded.

A similar bill was killed in the Maine House by a vote of 89 to 53 after it had been passed by the Senate.

MILL BLOWN UP.

Nine Men Injured and Big Boiler Hurled 100 Feet In the Air.

Sharon, Pa.—Three men were, perhaps, fatally injured and six others seriously hurt, when a puddling furnace at the Wilkes Rolling Mill exploded. The mill was partially wrecked. The boiler over the puddling mill was hurled 100 feet into the air. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

ROOSEVELT WEDDING DAY SET.

Miss Ethel Will Become Dr. Derby's Bride April 4.

Oyster Bay, N. Y.—The date of the wedding of Miss Ethel Carow Roosevelt, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, to Dr. Richard Derby, of this city, has been fixed as Friday, April 4. The wedding will be in the Episcopal Church here and a reception will follow at the Roosevelt residence on Sagamore Hill.

ANOTHER MEXICAN REVOLT IS ON

State of Sonora Declares Its Independence.

FLEEING ACROSS THE BORDER

Huerta's Provisional Government Officially Repudiated and Preparations Made To Resist the Federal Troops.

Douglas, Ariz.—Trains from the South brought many refugees who reported Northern Sonora is in a state of commotion in preparation for a general campaign to make the border state an independent republic.

Private telegrams received here from Mexico City say that Huerta has appointed Manuel Mascarenas provisional governor of Sonora, with orders to proceed to Hermosillo and subdue the uprising there. Messages from Hermosillo say that General Obregan has been appointed commander of the Constitutionalists in rebellion against the Mexico City government.

The former Maderists continue mobolization of troops at Colonia Morelos, below this point. Rebels camped 10 miles to the south declare they will make an attack on Agua Prieta.

Hermosillo, Sonora, Mexico.—Repudiation of Huerta's provisional national government was made officially here at a special meeting of the Sonora State Congress, which also issued a general call to arms for all people of the state, to prevent any intrusion of Huerta soldiers.

"Any attempt to bring government troops into Sonora will be resented," was the message sent by the state authorities here to the party in power at Mexico City.

Provisional Governor Pesquera has issued an announcement declaring:

"I am prepared to defend the state with my life." He was appointed chief executive by the Senate when Governor Maytorena, now a refugee in Arizona, was ousted.

ALLIANCE AGAINST CASTRO.

South American Republics Do Not Want Him To Return.

New York.—A triple alliance of Venezuela, Colombia and Nicaragua is said by South American consular agents here to have been informally entered into by these governments to prevent any return of the deposed President Castro to Venezuela. Francisco Esobar, consul general of Colombia, said that his government had three naval vessels patrolling the Colombia coast, which had been instructed to thwart any landing of a Castro force.

General Castro laughed at these reports, reiterating his denial of any intention to engage in fomenting revolution in Venezuela or Nicaragua. He said he would depart shortly to rejoin his family in Europe.

INAUGURATION COST $73,000.

Sum Spent By Citizens and Congressional Committees.

Washington. — Woodrow Wilson's inauguration as President of the United States cost approximately $73,000. The expenditures of the citizens' Inaugural Committee were about $48,000, while the receipts from all sources were approximately $34,000. The deficit of $14,000 will be made up from the guarantee fund of $88,000 which was subscribed in Washington. The Joint Congressional Inaugural Committee spent about $25,000, appropriated by Congress.

SAVED $8,000,000.

MacVeagh Has Proud Record To Look Back Upon.

Washington.—The Treasury Department's Committee on Efficiency and Economy reported to Franklin MacVeagh that he had saved $8,000,000 for the government during his four-year term as Secretary of the Treasury. The committee, in a detailed report of the reforms instituted, said: "The report shows the present annual rate of saving to be nearly $3,500,000 and the aggregate saving during your term to be nearly $8,000,000."

PLUNGES 5,000 FEET TO DEATH.

British Air-Man Falls While Demonstrating Machine.

Salisbury Plain, England.—Geoffrey England, a British air-man, fell 5,000 feet from his monoplane while making a flight on the army flying ground here and was instantly killed. He had been flying for an hour when the accident occurred.

WOULD LIMIT EXTRA SESSION.

Leaders Want Only Tariff and Appropriations Acted On.

Washington.—President Wilson was strongly urged by House leaders to use his influence for and agree to a plan which would confine Congress at the special session called for April 1 to the enactment of tariff legislation and the passage of the two appropriation bills which failed in the closing days of the last Congress.

TWO WOMEN SAVED FROM OPERATIONS

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Stories Here Told.

Beatrice, Neb.—"Just after my marriage my left side began to pain me and the pain got so severe at times that I suffered terribly with it. I visited three doctors and each one wanted to operate on me but I would not consent to an operation. I heard of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing for others and I used several bottles of it with the result that I haven't been bothered with my side since then. I am in good health and I have two little girls."—Mrs. R. B. CHILD, Beatrice, Neb.

The Other Case.

Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but my husband thought I had better write to you and I did so, stating my symptoms. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Maine.

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Keziah Coffin, supposed widow, is arranging to move from Trumet to Boston, following the death of her brother, for whom she had kept house. Kyan Pepper, widower, offers marriage, and is indignantly refused. Capt. Elkanah Daniels, leader of the Regular church offers Keziah a place as housekeeper for the new minister, and she decides to remain in Trumet. Keziah takes charge of Rev. John Ellery, the new minister, and gives him advice as to his conduct toward members of the parish. Ellery causes a sensation by attending a "Come-outer" meeting. Ellery's presence is bitterly resented by Eben Hammond, leader of the meeting. Grace apologizes for her guardian and Ellery escorts her home in the rain. Capt. Nat Hammond, Eben's son, becomes a hero by bringing the packet into port safely through fog and storm. Ellery finds Keziah writing a letter to some one, inclosing money in response to a demand. She curiously startled when informed of the arrival of Nat. Nat calls on Keziah, and it develops that they have been lovers since youth. Daniels remonstrates with Ellery for attending "Come-outer" meeting.

"So Nat grabs the wheel and 'Bije tears for'ard and sends the two fo'mast hands aloft on the jump. Zach was skipper, but all he done was race around and holler and trip over his own feet. It hit 'em 'fore they got even one tops'l clewed down. That one, the foretops'l 'twas, split to rags. The main tops'l was set, and when the squall struck, the rotten old topmast went by the board 'Kerrash-o!' 'Course splinters flew like all possessed, and one of 'em, about a foot long, sailed past Nat's head, where he stood heavin' his whole weight on the wheel, and lit right on the binnacle, smashin' it to matches.

"Well, there they was, afloat, but with their upper riggin' gone and the compass smashed flat. A howlin' no'th-wester blowin' and fog thick as ever. Zach was a whimperin', fidgetin' old woman, Lafayette and Emulous was prayin' in the scuppers—and that ain't an exercise they're used to, neither—even 'Bije was mighty shook up and worried—he says he was himself. But Nat Hammond was as cool and refreshin' as the bottom of my well up home.

"Then Nat suggests gettin' the spare compass and, lo and behold you! there wa'n't any. Compasses cost money and money's made to keep, so Zach thinks.

"So there they was. Wind was fair, or ought to be, but 'twas blowin' hard and so thick you couldn't hardly see the jib boom. Zach he wanted to anchor, then he didn't, then he did, and so on. Nobody paid much attention to him.

"'What'll we do, Nat?' says 'Bije. He knew who was the real seaman aboard.

"'Well, if 'twas me, I wouldn't anchor till I had to. Prob'ly 'twill fair off tomorrow, but if it shouldn't, we might have to lay out here all day. Anyhow, we'd have to wait for a full tide.'

"'I'm afraid we're off the course,' says 'Bije, 'else we'd been acrost the bar by this time.'

"'Well,' Nat tells him, 'if we are off the course and too far inshore, we would have made the bar—the Bayport bar—if not the Trumet one. And if we're off the course and too far out, we'd ought to have deeper water than five fathom, hadn't we? 'Course I'm not sure, but— What's that, landsman?'

"'Three and a half, sir,' says the feller with the lead. That showed they was edgin' in somewheres. Nat he sniffed, for all the world like a dog catchin' a scent, so 'Bije declares.

"'Tell you I smell home,' says Nat, calm and chipper, 'and I'd know that smell if I met it in Jericho. Ha! there she deepens again. That was the bar and we're over it.'

"The wind had gone down to a stiff sailin' breeze, and the old Debby S. slapped along afore it. Sometimes there was twelve foot under her keel and sometimes eight or nine. Once 'twas only seven and a half. Zach and 'Bije both looked at each other, but Nat only smiled.

"'Oh, you can laugh!' hollers Zach. 'Tain't your vessel you're runnin' into danger. You ain't paid out your good money—'

"Nat never answered; but he stopped smilin'.

"And all to once the water deepened. Hammond swung her up into the wind.

"'Now you can anchor,' says he.

"'And 'bout time, too, I guess,' says 'Bije. 'I cal'late the skipper's right. This is Horsefoot and we're right between the shoals. Yes, sir, and I hear breakers. Lively there!'

"They hove over the mudhook and dropped the sails. Nat shook his head.

"'Breakers or not,' says he, 'I tell you I've smelt home for the last half hour. Now, by the jumpin' Moses, I can taste it!'

"And inside of a couple of shakes come the rain. It poured for a while and then the fog cleared. Right across their bows was Trumet, with the town clock strikin' ten. Over the flat place between the hills they could see the light on the ocean side. And they was anchored right in the deep hole inside the breakwater, as sure as I'm knee high to a marlin spike!

"'Bije just stared at Hammond with his mouth open.

"'Nat,' says he, 'you're a seaman, if I do say it. I thought I was a pretty good bay pilot, but I can't steer a vessel without a compass through a night as black as Pharaoh's Egypt, and in a thick fog besides, and land her square on top of her moorin's. If my hat wa'n't sloshin' around thirty mile astern, I snum it I wouldn't take it off to you this minute!'"

The minister shut the door behind his departing guests. Then he went out into the kitchen, whither the housekeeper had preceded him. He found her standing on the back step, looking across the fields. The wash bench was untenanted.

"Hum!" mused Ellery thoughtfully, "that was a good story of Captain Mayo's. This man Hammond must be a fine chap. I should like to meet him."

Keziah still looked away over the fields. She did not wish her employer to see her face—just then.

"I thought you would meet him," she said. "He was here a little while ago and I asked him to wait. I guess Zeb's yarn was too much for him; he doesn't like to be praised."

"So? Was he here? At the Regular parsonage? I'm surprised."

"He and I have known each other for a long while."

"Well, I'm sorry he's gone. I think I should like him."

Keziah turned from the door.

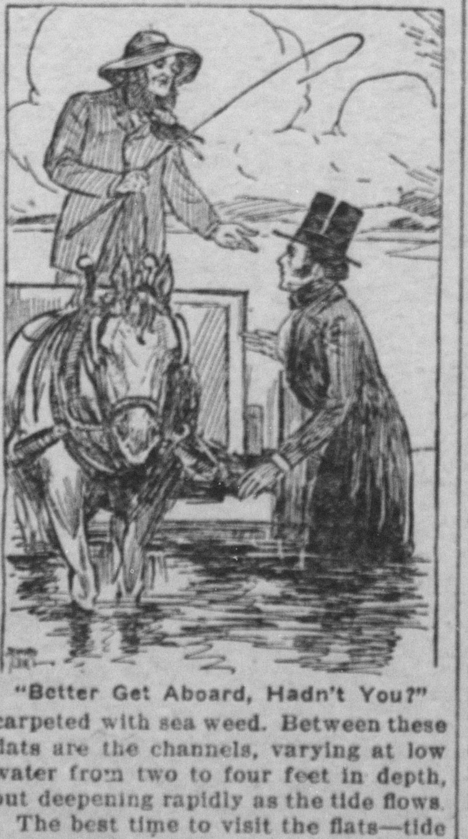
"I know you would," she said.

CHAPTER VI.

In Which Captain Nat Picks Up a Derelict.

It is probable that John Ellery never fully realized the debt of gratitude he owed to the fog and the squall and to Captain Nat Hammond. Trumet, always hungry for a sensation, would have thoroughly enjoyed arguing and quarreling over the minister's visit to the Come-Outer meeting, and, during the fracas, Keziah's parson might have been more or less battered. But Captain Nat's brilliant piloting of the old packet was a bit of seamanship which every man and woman on that foam-bordered stretch of sand could understand and appreciate, and the minister's indiscretion was all but forgotten in consequence. The "Daily Advertisers" gloated over it, of course, and Captain Elkanah brought it up at the meeting of the parish committee, but there Captain Zeb Mayo championed the young man's course and proclaimed that, fur's he was concerned, he was for Mr. Ellery more'n ever. "A young greenhorn with the spunk to cruise singlehanded right into the middle of the Come-Outer school and give an old bull whale like Eben the gaff is the man for my money," declared Zebedee. Most of his fellow-committee agreed with him. "Not guilty, but don't do it again," was the general verdict.

Keziah watched anxiously for a hint concerning her parson's walk in the rain with Grace, but she heard nothing, so congratulated herself that the secret had been kept. The tide at Trumet, on the bay side, goes out for a long way, leaving uncovered a mile and a half of flats, bare and sandy, or carpeted with sea weed. Between these flats are the channels, varying at low water from two to four feet in depth, but deepening rapidly as the tide flows.



"Better Get Aboard, Hadn't You?"

The best time to visit the flats—tide serving, of course—is the early morning at sunrise. Then there is an inspiration in the wide expanse, a snap and tang and joy in the air. Ellery had made up his mind to take a before-breakfast tramp to the outer bar and so arose at five, tucked a borrowed pair of fisherman's boots beneath his arm, and, without saying anything to his housekeeper, walked down the lawn behind the parsonage, climbed the rail fence, and "cut across lots" to the pine grove on the bluff. There he removed his shoes, put on the boots, wallowed through the mealy yellow sand forming the slope of the bluff, and came out on the white beach and the inner edge of the flats. Then he splashed on, bound out to where the fish weirs stood, like webby fences, in the distance.

A cart, drawn by a plodding horse and with a single individual on its high seat, was moving out from behind the breakwater. Some fisherman driving out his weir, probably. The minister had been on the bar a considerable time before he began to think of returning to the shore. He was hungry, but was enjoying himself too well to mind. The flats were all his that morning. Only the cart and its driver were in sight and they were half a mile off. He looked at his watch, sighed, and reluctantly started to walk toward the town; he mustn't keep Mrs. Coffin's breakfast waiting too long.

The first channel he came to was considerably deeper than when he forded it on the way out. He noticed this, but only vaguely. The next, however, was so deep that the water splashed in at the top of one of his boots. He did notice that, because though he was not wearing his best clothes, he was not anxious to wet his "other ones." The extent of his wardrobe was in keeping with the size of his salary.

And the third channel was so wide and deep that he saw at once it could not be forded, unless he was willing to plunge above his waist.

He hurried along the edge, looking for a shallower place, but found none. At last he reached the point of the flat he was on and saw, to his dismay, that here was the deepest spot yet, a hole, scoured out by a current like a mill race. Turning, he saw, creeping rapidly and steadily together over the flat behind him, two lines of foam, one from each channel. His retreat was cut off.

He was in for a wetting, that was sure. However, there was no help for it, so he waded in. The water filled his boots there, it gurgled about his hips, and beyond, as he could see, it seemed to grow deeper and deeper. The current was surprisingly strong; he found it difficult to keep his footing in the soft sand. It looked as though he must swim for it, and to swim in that tide would be no joke.

Then, from behind him, came a hail. He turned and saw moving toward him through the shallow water now covering the flat beyond the next channel, the cart he had seen leave the shore by the packet wharf, and, later, on the outer bar. The horse was jogging along, miniature geysers spouting beneath its hoofs. The driver waved to him.

"Hold on, mate," he called. "Belay there. Stay where you are. I'll be alongside in a shake. Git dap, January!"

Ellery waded back to meet this welcome arrival. The horse plunged into the next channel, surged through it, and emerged dripping. The driver pulled the animal into a walk.

"Say," he cried, "I'm cruisin' your way; better get aboard, hadn't you? There's kind of a heavy dew this mornin'. Whoa, Bill!"

"Bill" or "January" stopped with apparent willingness. The driver leaned down and extended a hand. The minister took it and was pulled up to the seat.

"Whew!" he panted. "I'm much obliged to you. I guess you saved me from a ducking, if nothing worse."

The horse, a sturdy, sedate beast to whom all names seemed to be alike, picked up his feet and pounded them down again. Showers of spray flew about the heads of the pair on the seat.

"I ain't so sure about that duckin'," commented the rescuer. "Hum! I guess likely we'll be out of soundin's if we tackle that sink hole you was undertakin' to navigate. Let's try it a little further down."

Ellery looked his companion over.

"Well," he observed with a smile, "from what I've heard of you, Captain Hammond, I rather guess you could navigate almost any water in this locality and in all sorts of weather."

The driver turned in surprise.

"So?" he exclaimed. "You know me, do you? That's funny. I was tryin' to locate you, but I ain't been able to. You ain't a Trumetite, I'll bet on that."

"Yes, I am."

"Tut! tut! tut! you don't tell me. Say, Shipmate, you hurt my pride. I did think there wa'n't a soul that ever trod sand in this village that I couldn't name on sight, and give the port they hailed from and the names of their owners. But you've got me on my beam ends. And yet you knew me."

"Of course I did. Everybody knows the man that brought the packet home."

The cart was afloat. The horse, finding wading more difficult than swimming, began to swim.

"Now I'm skipper again, sure enough," remarked Hammond. "Ain't gettin' seasick, are you?"

The minister laughed.

"No," he said.

"Good! she keeps on a fairly even keel, considerin' her build. There she strikes! That'll do, January; you needn't try for a record voyage. Walkin's more in your line than playin' steamboat. We're over the worst of it now. Say! you and I didn't head for port any too soon, did we?"

"No, I should say not. I ought to have known better than to wait out there so long. I've been warned about this tide. I—"

"S-sh-sh! that's all right. Always glad to pick up a derelict, may be a chance for salvage, you know. Here's the last channel and it's an easy one. There! now it's plain sailin' for dry ground."

The old horse, breathing heavily from his exertions, trotted over the stretch of yet uncovered flats and soon mounted the slope of the beach. The minister prepared to alight.

"Captain Hammond," he said, "you haven't asked me my name."

"No, I seldom do more'n once. There have been times when I'd just as soon cruise without too big letters alongside my figurehead."

"Well, my name is Ellery."

"Hey? What? Oh, ho! ho! ho!"

He rocked back and forth on the seat. The minister's feelings were a bit hurt, though he tried not to show it.

"You mustn't mind my laughin'," explained Nat, still chuckling. "It ain't at you. It's just because I was wonderin' what you'd look like if I should meet you and now— Ho! ho! You see, Mr. Ellery, I've heard of you, same as you said you'd heard of me."

The minister, who had jumped to the ground, looked up.

"Captain Hammond," he said, "I'm very glad indeed that I met you. Not alone because you helped me out of a bad scrape; I realize how bad it might have been and that—"

"Shsh, shh! Nothin' at all. Don't be foolish."

"But I'm glad, too, because I've heard so many good things about you that I was sure you must be worth knowing. I hope you won't believe I went to your father's meeting with any—"

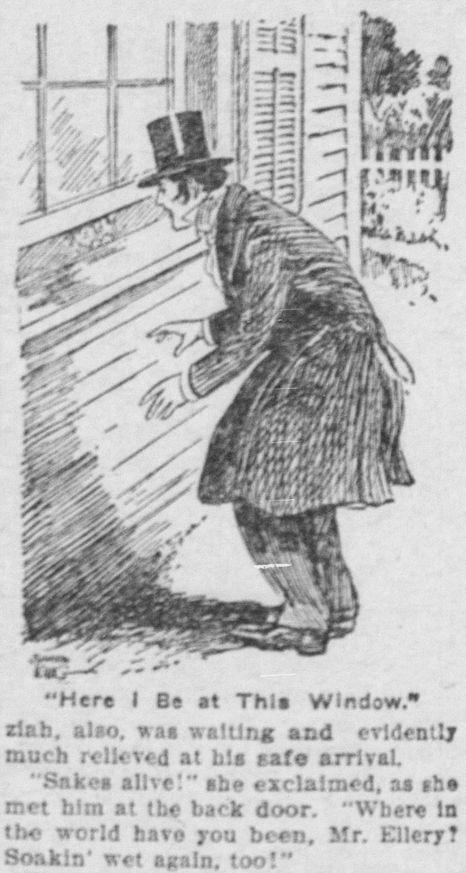
"No, no! Jumpin' Moses, man! I don't find fault with you for that. I understand, I guess."

"Well, if you don't mind the fact that I am what I am, I'd like to shake hands with you."

Nat reached down a big brown hand.

"Same here," he said. "Always glad to shake with a chap as well recommended as you are. Yes, indeed, I mean it. You see, you've got a friend that's a friend of mine, and when she guarantees a man to be A. B., I'll ship him without any more questions."

Breakfast had waited nearly an hour when the minister reached home. Keziah, also, was waiting and evidently much relieved at his safe arrival.



"Here I Be at This Window."

"Sakes alive!" she exclaimed, as she met him at the back door. "Where in the world have you been, Mr. Ellery? Soakin' wet again, too!"

He told briefly the story of his morning's adventure. The housekeeper listened with growing excitement.

"Heavens to Betsy!" she interrupted. "Was the channel you planned to swim the one at the end of the flat by the longest weir leader?"

"Yes."

"My soul! there's been two men drowned in that very place at half tide. And they were good swimmers. After this I shan't dare let you out of my sight."

"So? Was it as risky as that? Why, Captain Hammond didn't tell me so. I must owe him more even than I thought."

CHAPTER VII.

In Which the Parson and Mr. Pepper Declare Their Independence.

That afternoon, when dinner was over, the Reverend John decided to make a few duty calls. The first of these he determined should be on the Peppers.

The Pepper house was situated just off the main road on the lane leading over the dunes to the ocean and the light. It was a small building, its white paint dingy and storm beaten, and its little fenced-in front yard dotted thickly with clumps of silver-leaf saplings. A sign, nailed crookedly on a post, informed those seeking such information that within was to be found "Abishai G. W. Pepper, Tax Collector, Assessor, Boots and Shoes Repaired." And beneath this was fastened a shingle with the chalked notice. "Salt Hay for Sale."

The boot and shoe portion of the first sign was a relic of other days. Kyan had been a cobbler once, but it is discouraging to wait three or four weeks while the pair of boots one has left to be resoled are forgotten in a corner.

The minister walked up the dusty lane, lifted the Pepper gate, swung it back on its one hinge, and knocked at the front door. No one coming in answer to the knock, he tried again. Then from somewhere in the rear of the house came the sound of a human voice.

"Hi!" it called faintly. "Whoever you be, don't bust that door down. Come round here."

Ellery "came along" as far as the angle where the ell joined the main body of the house. So far as he could see every door and window was closed and there were no signs of life. However, he stepped to the door, a green-painted affair of boards, and ventured another knock.

"Don't start that poundin' again!" protested the voice. "Come round to t'other side where I be."

So around went the Reverend John, smiling broadly. But even on "t'other side" there was no one to be seen. And no door, for that matter.

"Why!" exclaimed the voice, "if 'tain't Mr. Ellery! How d'ye do? Glad to see you, Mr. Ellery. Fine day, ain't it? Here I be at this window."

Reformed—Union, morning; Spring Mills, afternoon; Centre Hall, evening.

What's in a Name?

There has been but one president named Thomas since the republic was founded. There have been five named James, and three named John. There have been three Williams and one George.

Martin, Zachary, Millard, Franklin, Abraham, Ulysses, Rutherford, Chester, Grover and Theodore are not what might be called common names, and yet none is quite so distinctive as Woodrow.

Blakeslee Recognized.

The following important appointments have been made by the President:

First assistant postmaster general, Daniel C. Roper, of South Carolina.

Third assistant postmaster general, Alexander M. Dockery, of Missouri.

Fourth assistant postmaster general, James I. Blakeslee, of Pennsylvania. Blakeslee is secretary of the Pennsylvania state Democratic committee.

United States judge, district of Porto Rico, Peter J. Hamilton, of Alabama.

Commissioner of labor, Charles P. Neill, of the district of Columbia. This is a reappointment.

G. H. Long Writes from Ohio.

Editor Reporter:

Please find check herewith which will date my label to January, 1914.

Ohio is a pretty good state, next to the old Keystone. You know we are all Democrats now—can't be helped. You will see us about a neck ahead of Pennsylvania on the prohibition question. Our legislature is now struggling over a license bill, and in a few years we hope to go under the prohibition banner. Hope Billy Sunday will preach his "booze sermons" in the centre of the state with sufficient force to be felt on the north, the east, the south and west borders.

Yours,
G. H. LONG.

Newark, Ohio, March 11.

Minstrel Show.

A home talent club of Millheim made up of a number of young men has been meeting with grand success in a minstrel show. The performance was given twice at Millheim and once at Spring Mills, much to the gratification of the audiences. This club will give a performance in Grange Arcadia on Thursday evening, March 20th.

Part one consists of solos, choruses, quartets, entertainment by the end men.

Part second—"Grand Olio," in which the "Wizzard of the Guitar," "The Blackville Poet," and "The Modern Coontown Cicero," deliver their choicest selections, vocal music, dialogues and specialties, concluding with that roaring afterpiece, "The Pantomime".

Admission, 10 and 20 cents to all parts of the house. Doors open at 7 o'clock; curtain rises at 8 o'clock.

Stover-Kayler.

At the Reformed parsonage, at Rebersburg, by Rev. G. A. Stauffer, on Saturday, Herbert J. Stover, of Madisonburg, and Miss Laura E. Kayler, of Coburn, were united in marriage.

Potters Mills

Clyde Nevil spent Sunday at the home of William Confer.

Quite a number from this place attended the Ertle sale in Georges Valley, on Tuesday.

Maynard Meeker and sons Bruce and Robert, are spending several days at Pine Glenn.

Rev. J. Max Lantz preached his last sermon for the conference year at Sprucetown Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Clayton McKinney and little son spent Saturday at the William Bower home, near the Red Mill.

Mrs. Elmer Stump and three children, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Wilson and baby, have been visiting at the home of their father the last week.

JUDGES NOT IN ACCORD.

Huntingdon County Licenses Held Up by One Judge, Granted by Another.

Perhaps the most excited people in Huntingdon county just now are those who want license to sell liquor and those who want to prevent them from getting it.

Following closely upon the filing of a decree by President Judge Woods that only the Orbisonia applicant's license was granted, came the filing of eight decrees by Associate Judge Richardson, each granting a license.

Attorneys differ in opinion as to the legal status of the decrees, and the prothonotary will not issue the licenses upon Judge Richardson's decree.

The two lawyers for the liquor men went to Lewistown to see Judge Woods, presented a petition from each applicant asking for a rehearing and the calling in of an additional judge. Judge Woods refused both requests.

72nd Birthday.

The following is from the Altoona Times, and refers to a Centre Hall lady who is visiting her sister-in-law, formerly Miss Lizzie Shoop, in Altoona:

In honor of her seventy-second birthday Mrs. Mary Shoop, of Centre Hall, was delightfully entertained at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs Wehrley, of 1502 Eighteenth street. A number of musical selections were rendered and some very interesting stories were recited by Mrs. Shoop. Then followed a very dainty and pleasing lunch. The following persons were present: Mr. and Mrs. John Wehrley, Mrs. Mary Shoop, Misses Lulu and Minnie Smith, Mrs. Carrie Stephens, Miss Bessie Wolfe, Messrs. Carl Hinton, Bruce and Ralph Wolf, John McKinnon, Gerald Wehrley. Many more pleasant years of happiness were wished Mrs. Shoop by those present.

Farm House Burned.

Late Saturday night the dwelling house on one of the Brockerhoff farms, one and one-half miles east of Bellefonte, on the Jacksonville road, was totally destroyed by fire. The farm is tenanted by T. B. Tibbens. His loss was $500 on furniture, and the dwelling house was insured for $1000. Both policies were carried by the Centre Hall Company, of which D. F. Luse is secretary.

The cause of the fire is supposed to have been due to a defective flue. The fire was first seen on the attic.

LOCALS

Furniture, the kind that makes your home look home like—Goodhart.

Miss Carrie Sweetwood was in Boalsburg over Sunday the guest of Miss Koch.

Something new in the Easter card line at this office. You can see here the prettiest line of cards ever exhibited in Centre Hall.

See Smith, the tinner, before buying in his line. He is prepared to give you the lowest prices on stoves, spouting, roofing, and anything in his line.

Mrs. Lou D. Bell, at Boalsburg, received an assortment of ladies' trimmed hats and invites all to attend her spring millinery opening, on Saturday March 15th.

Toner A. Hugg, of Milesburg, was appointed a stream inspector by Dr. Dixon, head of the State Department of health. His territory is in the western part of Pennsylvania, and he is now on his job.

Mrs. W. Fred Reynolds and Albert Hoy placed in the memorial hall in the court house, a fine oil portrait of the late Judge Adam Hoy. The portrait is the production of Antrim and Landys, a Philadelphia firm.

Former Commissioner H. E. Zimmerman has turned farmer again, he and his son Roy having leased three of the Reynolds farms, now a part of the penitentiary site. The farms, formerly tenanted by James Neese, John Neese and William Lytle are the ones they will till.

S. E. Weber, at Boalsburg, is exhibiting an egg of extraordinary size, and has some thought of using it as a foundation for a new strand of poultry, and if successful will launch in the poultry business on a grand scale. The egg in question measures eight and one-half and six and one-fourth inches in circumference.

"A Daughter of the Desert," a melodrama in four acts, given by Pleasant Gap talent in Grange Hall, Thursday night, pleased a fair sized audience. It was their third rendition of the play, having appeared on two former occasions in their home town. Every performer acted his or her part in a creditable manner, and all the good things said about this company of young people are justly deserved. The Pleasant Gap orchestra furnished elegant music between acts.

I. A. Sweetwood advertises eggs for hatching from several hens of S. C. Golden Buff Leghorn hens. One of the pens is headed with a cock that has taken prizes at Pittsburg and Ohio poultry shows. Mr. Sweetwood has been breeding both for appearance and egg production. During the past few years he has given reports of what certain pens have been doing, and each test was exceptionally creditable. See Mr. Sweetwood if you are in the market for fine strands of poultry.

Spring Mills

Charles H. Smull, and wife of Rebersburg, were Spring Mills visitors on Sunday.

Mrs. D. R. Runkle, of Shamokin, was a guest at the home of R. D. Musser, on Saturday.

Miss Anna Rimmey, of Pleasant Gap, was a guest at the home of Bright Bitner, over Sunday.

Rev. M. A. Kennelley, of Carlisle, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs Thomas Kennelley, in town.

Harry W. Weaver, north of town, has recently purchased a new 1913 model Ford touring car from H. C. Breon & Company.

Decker Bros. have finished their lumber operations on the Fisher tract east of town, and have moved their mill to Farmers Mills.

S. Ward Gramley, of Millheim, was a Spring Mills visitor on Friday evening, and while here was in attendance at a regular session of I. O. O. F. Lodge.

Rev. O. E. Martin, of the Evangelical church, who was stationed by Conference on the Sugar Valley circuit, will move in the near future. His many friends are sorry to lose him as their pastor.

Rev. J. Max Lantz, pastor of the Methodist church, preached his last sermon for this conference year on Sunday evening to a large and appreciative audience. His parishioners, together with his many friends, hope for his return to the Penns Valley appointment for another conference year.

Rebersburg.

Mr. Fultz, of Woodward, has been employed as head sawyer on the Bowersox saw mill.

Mrs. Wm. Bair spent several days at Centre Hall this week visiting her daughter, Mrs. Mifflin Moyer.

Frank Long moved last Thursday from Spring Mills to this place, and is now tenant on the D. D. Royer farm.

The primary school at this place has been closed for two weeks on account of measles which have become epidemic in this vicinity.

Mr. Grenoble, of Madisonburg, will ere long move into Henry Meyer's tenement house and will work for Samuel Mowery on the farm.

Miss Rebe Miller, of Lock Haven, is at present staying at the home of Robert Hackenburg and is taking care of Mrs. Hackenburg, who is on the sick list.

David Breon, who had intended to leave with his family last Monday for Bellevue, Ohio, where he will work on a farm, was detained on account of sickness in his family.

Georges Valley.

Jerry Weaver will move to Potters Mills today (Thursday)

Mrs. Samuel Lingle and family spent Sunday with W. W. Jamison.

Frank Ennist, of Yeagertown, visited James Foust on Sunday.

Mrs. Rose Lingle spent Saturday at Spring Mills with Mrs. Mary Grenoble.

Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Foust spent Saturday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. J. C. Reeder.

Miss Abbie Barger, of State College, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barger.

Mrs. S. C. Confer and daughter Ruth visited at the home of S. G. Rote last Tuesday.

Miss Carrie Barger, who has been employed at State College is home with her parents for a few weeks visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lingle were among the number that partook of the turkey dinner at W. O. Ripka's on Sunday.

YEAR BOOK of Stark Bro's Nurseries & Orchards Co. MAILED TO YOU FREE

Just say on a Postal Card: "Send me a copy of Stark Year Book for 1913." When writing, also tell us how many trees, shrubs, vines, etc., you will probably plant this season.

This Year Book is more than a mere catalogue of Stark nursery products, it is a practical easy to understand text book for the guidance of the man who plants trees. Our own experience of nearly 100 years, the reports of experiment stations and the opinions of planters from all sections are condensed and reproduced for the benefit of busy people. An encyclopedia of orchard information, containing full size color illustrations of gloriously tinted fruits and many photographic reproductions in black and white; also information on many subjects in which the orchardist is interested.

Hundreds of varieties of apples, pears, peach, plum, cherry, apricot, quince, grape and all small fruits are described; weaknesses of each variety are pointed out and good points are explained. We feel that planters should know both.

Those interested in growing fruits or flowers or shrubs or shade trees will find this book of inestimable value; totally different from the average nurseryman's publications. It is a book you will keep for reference, and one on which you can depend as being absolutely accurate. Write today for your copy.

Members of quarterly conference, Dr. A. E. Gobble, New Berlin; J. F. Shultz, W. I. Shambaugh, missionaries to China, Milton; J. D. Stover, Sugar Valley; S. Smith, Mifflinburg; I. M. Pines, W. P. Thomas, Lewisburg; L. K. Harris, Unityville; W. C. Birele, West Berwick; J. H. Hertz, Stonestown.

Two Road Bills.

Hon. C. L. Gramley introduced in the house two bills establishing two State Highways in Penns Valley that will serve the tax payers well, and the bills ought to become laws.

The one road begins at Centre Hall and passes through Potter, Gregg and Miles township, through the Brush Valley Narrows and connects with a state road near Mifflinburg.

The other road begins at Old Fort, leads to Linden Hall, Oak Hall, and Lemont, connecting there with a state road.

Neither of the sections traversed by these roads have State Highways passing through them. The Reporter voices the sentiment of the people on the south side of Centre county when it commends Mr. Gramley for his action.

LOCALS

Sideboards, kitchen cabinets, sinks, everything in the furniture line—Goodhart.

Dr. Roland G. Curtain, of Philadelphia, is seriously ill. Dr. Curtain was born in Bellefonte, in 1839, but has been in Philadelphia since the war.

H. F. McManaway, of Millheim, on Monday returned from Harrisburg, where he visited his father, O. H. McManaway, who is ill. The senior McManaway is a builder and contractor.

The Keller brothers—William F. and Christ D.— who sometime ago purchased the Koch property adjoining their farm, will remove the buildings. The work of razing will be done by John D. Lucas and force of workmen.

Samuel Kramer, who now lives on one of the Wagner farms near Bellefonte, will take possession of the old Murray farm, between Linden Hall and Oak Hall, purchased some time ago by him from Mrs. J. W. Keller of Linden Hall.

Among the Reporter's callers on Saturday was William F. Rockey, of Tusseyville, who for many years has been in the produce business, buying on a large scale. He has secured the services of James Swabb to succeed R. R. Rickert who had been in his employ for seven years.

On Monday Hon. Leonard Rhone went to Harrisburg, and with others prominently connected with the order of Patrons of Husbandry, on Tuesday, appeared before a committee on the tax question. Mr. Rhone, from the various reports issued by the several departments of the state government, compiled figures which will be used as the basis of the argument to show that real estate—particularly farms—pays an unjust proportion of the taxes collected for all purposes.

LOCALS

Carpets and rugs—Goodhart.

The violet and not the daisy may become the state flower.

Judge Orvis has not yet acted on the license for the Millheim hotel.

Thursday night, March 20, the Ministrel show in Grange Arcadia.

Bowser, in Grange Arcadia, Thursday evening, March 13th. The name tells the story.

Speer Burrell, of Millheim, is at the point of death. He is suffering with pneumonia.

A Story and Song service will be rendered in the Evangelical church Sunday evening.

Harry Hubler, a telegrapher at Pine Station, was home for a few days beginning of the week.

The $50,000,000 bond question for roads will come before the people at the November election.

The auditors' statement of finances of Centre county is published in supplement form in this issue.

Mrs. Adam Krumrine, of Tusseyville, is seriously ill, and has been in that condition for a week or more.

Aaron Thomas has moved into the Rearick property, and was one of the first in town to change locations this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stoner, of State College, were in Centre Hall on Tuesday, having come here on business.

Milton Bradford will move into the J. C. Rossman flat over the postoffice. Mr. Bradford is assistant station agent at Centre Hall.

Miss Ruth Yarnell, of Linden Hall, was the guest of her friend, Miss Grace Ripka, at Centre Hill, for a few days last week.

Beginning of next week Miss Virna Geiss is expected here from Philadelphia. She is coming on business concerning the Geiss home.

Easter post cards, in great variety, will be found at this office. Price, fifteen cents per dozen. Sent by mail, postage paid at this end.

A large gray shawl was picked up off the street by John Martz and is now in the hands of William Floray awaiting an owner.

Robin Redbreast has put in his appearance and let us hope that King Winter will not be so unkind as to chill his cheering notes of mirth.

Miss Hazel Emery accompanied Miss Ethel Grieb to State College on Friday and was her guest and that of an aunt, Mrs. Ida Shirk, until Monday.

Joe Kendig will offer for sale a car load of young mules at Old Fort, on Saturday and Monday, March 15th and 17th. See advertisement in this issue.

N. B. Shaffer moved from near Centre Hall to near Rebersburg. Charles T. Crust, from the State College district, follows Mr. Shaffer as tenant, his mother having purchased the farm some time ago.

W. M. Grove, of Spring Mills, was a business visitor to Centre Hall on Monday morning. Mr. Grove takes a lively interest in the affairs of Gregg township. He states that everything points to successful sessions of Farmers' Institute the latter part of this week.

"The Philosophy of Fun" or "Heart Smile," is the title of the lecture Mr. Harry Bowser will give in Grange Arcadia, Thursday evening, March 13. The title of his lecture also tells the nature of it. If you are not afraid of a "split side," go hear Bowser.

Mrs. W. K. Shultz, of Woodland Station, Baltimore, is expected here the latter part of this week by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Keller. Mrs. Shultz is at the home of Rev. J. F. Shultz, at Watsontown, during the time that her husband is attending the sessions of conference at Lewisburg.

The play given at Boalsburg by local talent from Centre Hall was well received. The house was filled to overflow, and the audience was in the best of humor. Boalsburg people are noted for their hospitality, and on this occasion the Civic Club, which is comprised of the wideawake women of that town, very pleasantly entertained the company, and after the performance served refreshments. The play was given under the auspices of the Civic Club, and the profits will go toward maintaining the street lights in Boalsburg.

Prof. P. H. Meyer is convinced that running an automobile is somewhat of a proposition for a music teacher, and that it is just as easy to hit the wrong key of the auto as it is on the piano. He came to this conclusion on Thursday morning of last week, when he undertook to run his Ford runabout backward out of the shed. He touched the wrong button, and there was a pronounced discord. The machine plunged forward, passed through the garage doors, and demolished a garden fence. On the way through the closed doors, the shield was shattered, and the pieces cut Mr. Meyer on the face and hands. It required the services of Dr. Foster and machinist C. H. Breon to straighten up matters. But the machine will be conquored.

DEATHS

The remains of Mrs. George A. Tate were shipped from Duquesne to Dale Summit on Wednesday, and in the afternoon interment was made at Shiloh church, Rev. J. I. Stonecypher officiating. The deceased was aged about thirty-seven years, and is survived by a husband, and two children, a daughter aged eleven, and a baby five weeks old.

Jeremiah Bierly, an aged resident of Tylersville was found dead in bed Saturday morning, he having been suddenly stricken during the night with heart failure. Deceased was aged seventy-five years, and leaves nine children. The remains will be taken to Youngsdale where he formerly resided, for burial.

Ray Druno Grove, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Grove, of Coburn, aged thirteen years, died on Thursday and interment was made Monday in Millheim, Rev. D. M. Geesey officiating. The lad was a sufferer from tuberculosis of the bowels.

Harris Township.

Charles Fisher, of Danville, made a short visit to Boalsburg last week.

Miss Annie Lohr spent several days at her home at Centre Hall.

L. F. Mayes and family, of Lemont, spent Sunday afternoon at Boalsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Garberic visited in Bellefonte from Saturday till Monday.

Samuel Everhart, of the Branch, attended to business at Boalsburg on Monday.

Mrs. Samuel Ryan, of Bellefonte, visited for a few days at the Fisher home.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Cramer' of State College, attended the play on Saturday evening.

One of the social events of the season was a party at the home of A. R. Lee on Tuesday evening.

Miss Mollie Hoffer returned to State College on Saturday evening after spending two weeks at Boalsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meyer with their little daughter, of the Branch, spent Sunday at Locust Grove farm.

Mrs. E E Brown and Mrs. L. E. Kidder and daughter, Miss Mary, are attending the Methodist Conference at Altoona this week.

Miss Mable Myers returned home on Saturday from Altoona where she had visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. P. Wagner, for two months.

Mrs. J. A. Decker, son Wilbur and daughter Dorothy, of Pine Grove Mills, took supper at the Reformed parsonage on Saturday evening and attended the play in Boal Hall.

Miss Esther Brown departed Monday for Harrisburg, where she is engaged as a helper in an "Old Ladies Home". Mrs. Rudy, whose maiden name was Miss Birdie Musser, the matron, was formerly from Pine Grove Mills.

A number of relatives and friends of Mrs. E. W. Sweeney assembled at her home on Thursday evening in honor of her birthday. Her sister, Mrs Lizzie Jocobs, of Centre Hall, who spent several days in Boalsburg, was one of the company. The occasion was one to be remembered.

Dr. George P. Bible, a humerous lecturer of national reputation, will deliver his lecture on "Life and Opportunity" in Boal Hall, on next Saturday evening, March 15th. Dr. Bible is a self-made man, a native of Centre county, and by experience is able to talk on the above subject. The press every where speaks of him in the highest terms. Come and hear him and you will be entertained and benefitted. Admission 10 and 26 cents.

Spring Mills.

Wm. Zones spent Sunday at home.

Mrs. Thomas Jamison, who has been quite ill, is recovering.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Corman on March 7th.

Miss Rimmy, of Pleasant Gap, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Condo.

Mrs. Roland Hockman, of Philadelphia, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Jamison.

John Rishel and R. G. Kennelley, who are ill, are not improving very rapidly.

A large number of people attended the sale of the personal effects of the late Samuel Ertle, in Georges Valley.

On Tuesday Charles Bartges, of Penn Hall, drove to C. P. Long's store to transact a bit of business, and from there he intended driving his team to Samuel Stitzer's blacksmith shop, but on reaching Dunlap's barber shop one of the horses fell, and was unable to get up. Every effort was made to get the animal on its feet, but without success. Finally Mr. Bartges ordered it shot, which was done.

LOCALS.

The Y. P. B. will hold their first meeting in the new home of the W. C. T. U., in the Reporter building, on Friday evening.

Keep in mind that Thursday night of next week you will be given an opportunity to see some clever performing by a local company from Millheim in Grange Arcadia.

If present plans are consummated, the young people of Centre Hall will produce "Down in Dixie," a play of Civil War time, some time in April. The proceeds will be used for purchasing a public drinking fountain, for the use of man and beast, and will most likely be erected on the diamond.

Mrs. Foster D. Walker, of Lock Haven, is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Weaver, west of Centre Hall. Mr. Walker is employed in the paper mill, at Lock Haven, but while Mrs. Walker is here he is at the home of his parents at Spring Mills.

Next Wednesday, 19th inst., is the date for the large sale of farm stock and implements to be held by C. W. Weaver, near Linden Hall, on the Van Tries farm. Mr. Weaver not only has a large stock of horses, cattle and hogs, but they are well bred, and will be found in the pink of condition, having been under the care of William Swabb during the past two months. He will also sell a large variety of farming implements, much of the machinery being good as new.

WHO IS WHO IN WILSON'S CABINET

Brief Sketches of Advisers of the New President.

BRYAN'S CAREER EPITOMIZED

McAdoo a Famous Tunnel Builder, McReynolds Skilled in "Trust Busting," Garrison a Man of Unusual Executive Ability, Others Able.

Washington, March 5.—President Wilson today sent to the senate the names of the following as the members of his cabinet:

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN,
Secretary of State.

Secretary of the Treasury—William G. McAdoo of New York.

Secretary of War—Lindley M. Garrison of New Jersey.

Attorney General—James C. McReynolds of Tennessee.

Postmaster General—Albert Burleson of Texas.

Secretary of the Navy—Josephus Daniels of North Carolina.

Secretary of the Interior—Franklin K. Lane of California.

Secretary of Agriculture—David A. Houston of Missouri.

Secretary of Commerce—William C. Redfield of New York.

Secretary of Labor—William B. Wilson of Pennsylvania.

With one or two exceptions, these men have attained considerable national fame, and all of them are admittedly able.

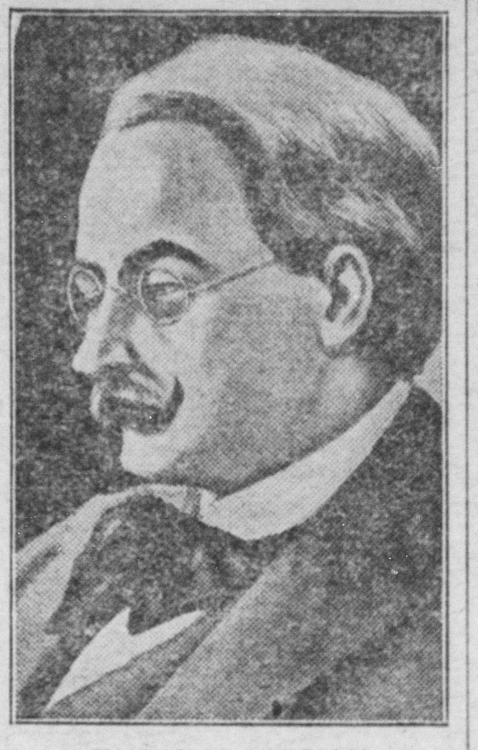
Mr. Bryan's Career.

WILLIAM G. M'ADOO,
Secretary of the Treasury.

William J. Bryan has been so much in the public eye for a good many years that a sketch of his career seems almost superfluous. Born in Salem, Ill., in 1860, he was graduated with highest honors from Illinois college at Jacksonville in 1881 and received his master's degree in 1884. In 1883 he was given the degree of LL. B. by Union College of Law, Chicago. After practicing law in Jacksonville and Lincoln, Neb., he served as a member of the 52nd and 53rd congresses. Having written the "silver plank" for the Democratic national convention of 1896 and made a sensational speech, he was nominated for president, but was defeated by William McKinley. Nominated again in 1900, he was again beaten by McKinley, and then established the Commoner and made a tour of the world. Nominated a third time in 1908, he was defeated by W. H. Taft.

Mr. Bryan married Mary Elizabeth Baird in 1884. He has done much lecturing and written several books.

McAdoo the Tunnel Builder.



LINDLEY M. GARRISON,
Secretary of War.

William Gibbs McAdoo, though a lawyer by profession, is known to most people as the builder of the great system of railway tunnels of New York city. He was born near Marietta, Ga., in 1863 and was educated at the University of Tennessee. In 1885 he was admitted to the bar, and the same year he married Sarah Houston Fleming of Chattanooga. He entered the practice of law in New York in 1892, and since 1901 has been interested chiefly in tunnel construction there. He is president of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad company.

Lindley M. Garrison.

© HARRIS & EWING

JAMES C. M'REYNOLDS,
Attorney General.

The selection of Lindley M. Garrison, vice-chancellor of New Jersey, to be secretary of war is in line with President Wilson's idea that the holder of that position should be a man of unusual executive ability. He is a close friend of Mr. Wilson. Mr. Garrison was born in Camden, N. J., November 28, 1864. He is a son of Rev. Joseph F. Garrison, an Episcopal clergyman. He is a brother of Justice Charles G. Garrison of the New Jersey supreme court. He was appointed to the chancery court in June, 1904, and reappointed by Chancellor Mahlon Pitney, now a justice of the United States Supreme court, in 1911 for a term of seven years.

James C. McReynolds.

ALBERT BURLESON,
Postmaster General.

In picking James Clark McReynolds for the position of attorney general, Mr. Wilson selected a man who has had a lot of experience as a "trust buster." He is a native of Elkton, Ky., where he was born in 1862, and a graduate of Vanderbilt university and the law school of the University of Virginia. From 1903 to 1907 he was assistant attorney general of the United States. He then returned to private practice, but has been retained as special assistant to the attorney general in matters relating to the enforcement of the anti-trust laws. Mr. McReynolds is unmarried.

Albert S. Burleson.

Albert Sidney Burleson already has served seven consecutive terms as congressman from the Tenth district of Texas and was re-elected to the Sixty-third congress. He was born in San Marcos, Tex., in 1863, was educated at the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, Baylor university and the University of Texas, and was admitted to the bar in 1884. He was assistant city attorney of Austin for several years before going to congress. Mrs. Burleson was Miss Adele Steiner of Austin.

Josephus Daniels.

Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, is the one newspaper man given place in the cabinet. He has also been active in politics and is the member of the Democratic national committee for North Carolina. Mr. Daniels was born in 1862 at Washington, N. C., and began his newspaper career at the age of eighteen as editor of the Wilson (N. C.) Advance. In 1885 he became editor of the Raleigh State Chronicle, which nine years later he consolidated with the North Carolinian and the News and Observer.

Franklin K. Lane.

© HARRIS & EWING

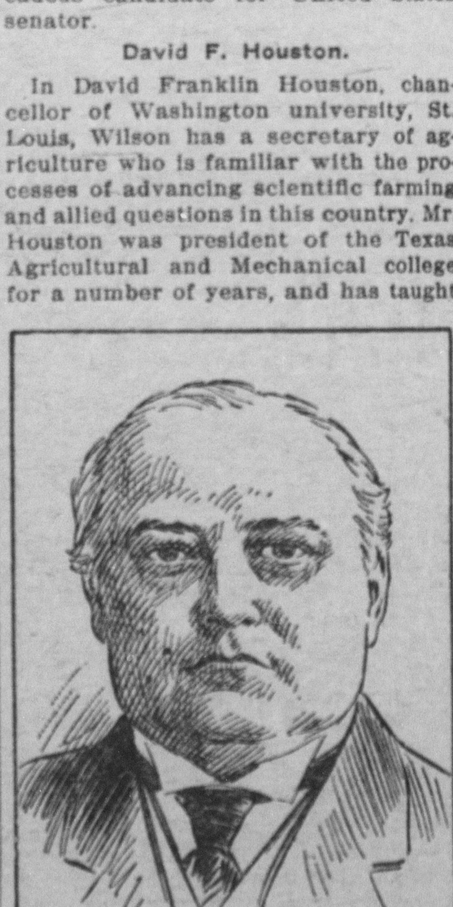
JOSEPHUS DANIELS,
Secretary of the Navy.

Franklin Knight Lane has been a member of the interstate commerce commission since 1905, and this experience is believed to have fitted him for the executive and judicial tasks in administering the public land laws of the country. Born in Prince Edward Island in 1864, he received his education in the University of California and became a lawyer in San Francisco. Prior to his designation to the commission he was a Democratic political leader in California. He was Democratic candidate for governor, being defeated by a narrow margin.

DAVID A. HOUSTON,
Secretary of Agriculture.

subsequently he was the Democratic caucus candidate for United States senator.

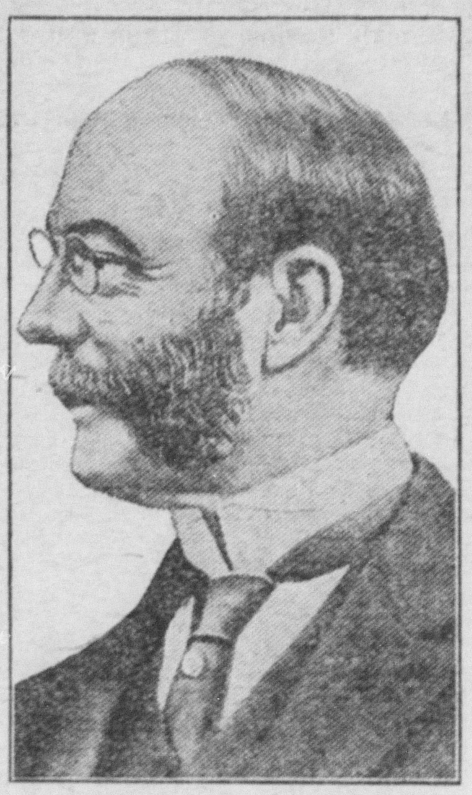
David F. Houston.



FRANKLIN K. LANE,
Secretary of the Interior.

In David Franklin Houston, chancellor of Washington university, St. Louis, Wilson has a secretary of agriculture who is familiar with the processes of advancing scientific farming and allied questions in this country. Mr. Houston was president of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college for a number of years, and has taught in several other educational institutions. He was born in Monroe, N. C., in 1866, was educated at South Carolina college and Harvard, and received the degree of LL. D. from Tulane and the University of Wisconsin. He married Miss Helen Beall of Austin, Tex., in 1895.

William C. Redfield.



WILLIAM C. REDFIELD,
Secretary of Commerce.

William Cox Redfield has just completed his first term as a congressman, but he has been prominent in the politics of New York for a good many years. In 1902 and 1903 he was commissioner of public works for the Borough of Brooklyn. In private life he is a manufacturer of ventilating and heating apparatus and engines. Mr. Redfield was born in 1858 in Albany, N. Y., was educated in the schools of that city, and removed to New York in 1877 and to Brooklyn in 1883.

William B. Wilson.

WILLIAM B. WILSON,
Secretary of Labor.

Pennsylvania's representative in the cabinet is William Bauchop Wilson of Blossburg, named for secretary of labor. He was born in Blantyre, Scotland, in 1862, and came to this country in 1870. The next year he began working in the Pennsylvania coal mines, and from early manhood he has been actively interested in trade union affairs. For eight years he was international secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America. He is now engaged in farming. Mr. Wilson has been a member of the last three congresses, representing the Fifteenth district of his state. He is married and has nine children.

CONSORT PICKED BY ROYALTY

Somewhat Summary Method of Mating as It Is Done in the Kingdom of Siam.

Kings of Siam apparently do not believe in the wisdom of allowing single women to drift unattached about the country. In certain districts after a girl has reached an age where her securing for herself a husband is considered doubtful, she becomes a "daughter of the king." That is, the king takes upon himself the task of settling her suitably in life.

His process is quite simple, and to the point. He proceeds to the Siamese penitentiary and looks over the various prisoners. There is a law in Siam that any prisoner can obtain his release by marrying one of this class of girls, and, naturally enough, any pisoner whom the king picks out is not likely to be backward about consenting to the ceremony. Nor does it make any difference if he is married, for the men of that country are not restricted to one wife.

As far as can be learned, there is no allowance made for the inclination of the girl in question. She has failed in her mission in life as far as she herself is concerned, and she must abide by the decision of the king.

Cream Corn Soup.

Heat a quart of milk in a mush boiler, as milk scorches easily; press a small can of corn through a strainer to remove hulls. If the corn does not go through the strainer well, pour the milk into it; this will help to secure the pulp of the corn. Add a lump of butter the size of a walnut and pepper and salt to suit the taste. Beat the white of one egg to a stiff froth and stid into the soup lightly a few minutes before serving.

Relieves Neuralgia

Sloan's Liniment gives instant relief from neuralgia or sciatica. It goes straight to the painful part—soothes the nerves and stops the pain. Don't rub—it penetrates.

PROOF

Mrs. Rudolph Niscke, Oconto, Wis., writes:—"I have used Sloan's Liniment for toothache and neuralgia in the head where nothing else would help me and I would not be without the Liniment in the house."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is also good for rheumatism, sore throat, chest pains and sprains.

Pains All Gone

Mrs. C. M. Dowker, of Johannesburg, Mich., writes:—"I wish to say your Liniment is the best medicine in the world. It has cured me of neuralgia; those pains have all gone and I can truly say your Liniment did cure me."

Pain All Gone

Mr. J. R. Swinger, of 547 So. 12th St., Louisville, Ky., writes:—"I suffered with quite a severe neuralgic headache for four months without any relief. I used your Liniment for two or three nights and I haven't suffered with my head since. I have found many quick reliefs from pain by the use of Sloan's Liniment and believe it to be the best Liniment on the market to-day. I can recommend it for what it did for me."

EMBEZZLER FREE UNDER NEW LAW

Quits Jail, Awaiting Trial for Another Offense

HIS SECRET WELL GUARDED

Lawyer Broomall Pleads Guilty, and After Accepting Imprisonment for Short Term Escapes Another Charge on a Technicality.

Media.—Henry L. Broomall, ex-president of the Media Club, headquarters for the elite of the community, ex-vice-president of the Delaware County Institute of Science, and ex-treasurer of the Delaware County Prison Board, was released from jail. Broomall was one of the most prominent of Media's attorneys at the time he was arrested by Herman Cope, of Moylan. This was on July 27, 1911. Cope charged that Broomall had embezzled about $900, paid to him in a suit for damages. The arrest created a great deal of excitement, and in a few days it was learned that he had misappropriated more than $50,000 intrusted to him by clients.

One Plea of Guilt.

Broomall at the December term of Court in 1911, before Judge Ralston, of Philadelphia, who came to Media to try the case, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to one year in jail from date of commitment. His time expired July 27, 1912, and as he was about to walk out of the prison he was served by the Sheriff with a detainer on a charge of embezzling $5,000 from Miss Hattie Gault, former postmistress of Media, who had placed bonds to that amount in his charge for safekeeping. Broomall declined to give bail, and went back to jail to awit the action of the grand jury. The December grand jury found a true bill, but before that body adjourned it was discovered that the jury-wheel had been "stuffed" and that the jury was illegal. All its findings were set aside by the court. A recent act of the Legislature prohibits a prisoner being held over two terms of court for trial, and, as Broomall's case had been continued from the September term, this gave him the legal right to be released.

Woman Sufferer Surprised.

J. Watts Mercur, counsel for Miss Gault, was asked to make application for the release of Broomall, but he refused to do this. Miss Gault, the prosecutor against Broomall, was astounded when she learned that he had been given his liberty. "Why," she said, "some one came to my boarding home—a court officer, I think—and informed me that I would have to be in court on next morning, as that was the time fixed for my case." When Broomall left the jail he was taken to an automobile and hurried out of town. His wife has taken a cottage at Chelsea, N. J.

Roused from Death Stupor.

Shamokin. — When Mrs. Michael O'Brien awoke she was almost asphyxiated by coal gas, generated during the night by a damper dropping into a heater. After a heroic effort she aroused her husband, who was in a semi-conscious condition, along with their four children. O'Brien crawled to a window and admitted air, and when strong enough he summoned a physician, who worked a number of hours resuscitating the children.

Fills the Largest Grave.

South Bethlehem.—A large crowd attended the funeral of Mrs. Charles J. Diehl, of Colesville, the heaviest woman in this part of the State. She weighed 350 pounds and was 39 years old. The grave, in Freidensville Cemetery, is the largest ever dug there. On the way to the burial one of the valuable black horses of Undertaker H. A. Ritter fell dead.

Boy Blinded by Dynamite.

York.—Playing with a dynamite cap, which he found in the garret at his home, 13-year-old Chester Landis, of Longstown, York county, blew out his right eye and so injured the left that he may be permanently blind. The thumb and first finger of his left hand were also torn off.

Precautions of a Skunk Farmer.

York.—A skunk farm has been started by Otto Neiman, an enterprising resident of Eastmont, York county. He has fenced off about an acre of land with close-meshed wire, and a half-dozen skunks have been liberated in the enclosure.

Bachelor Hoarded His Gold.

Northampton.—When the safe of Bachelor Louis Mattern, a meat merchant, of this place, who died recently, was pried open $11,000, mostly in gold, was found. He had been in this country seventeen years, and accumulated more than $20,000.

Lutherans Call Professor.

Reading.—A special meeting of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania was held in Trinity Church here, when favorable action was taken on the call of the Rev. Charles M. Jacobs, of Christ Church, Allentown, to the professorship founded at the Mt. Airy Seminary by Chas. A. Schieren, of Brooklyn. Another important question considered was the proposed mortgaging of some of the Muhlenberg College property in order that more buildings may be added in the near future.

COMMERCIAL

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

Dun's Review says:

"Reports from leading trade centers continue satisfactory in most instances. There is a large distribution of the principal products and sustained activity in retail trade, particularly in sections favored with good weather. Outside of those markets which, by reason of their larger and more sensitive speculative organization, have been directly affected by the improvement events happening in various parts of the globe, business sentiment maintains a steady, conservative attitude, even on the eve of the first change in the political control of our government in 16 years."

Bradstreet's says:

"Events of the week have been mainly favorable. Prominent among these have been a widespread visitation of moisture, especially beneficial in the grain-growing areas hitherto, reporting deficiencies; a further expansion in spring jobbing trade and the appearance of a more cheerful feeling in the markets for securities, both at home and abroad, the result of more settled conditions in international political affairs.

"Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week aggregate 4,800,185 bushels, against 3,268,770 bushels last year."

TRAGEDY OF AN AIR DEATH

How the Grandchildren of Colonel Nieuport Concealed His Son's Death.

"Why did not Charles come back yesterday?" querulously demanded Colonel Nieuport, the eighty-two-year-old father of the airman killed near Etampes, Seine-et-Loire, recently. His eldest brother, Edward Nieuport, was killed in the military maneuvers of 1911.

The news of the second son's death had been hidden from the father, and his relatives could only reply: "Charles has gone for a great flight."

"Ah, well! And why, then, has not Edward come to bid me good night?"

They could not make him remember that Edward was long dead. With tears in their eyes his grandchildren brought him letters and flowers to distract him.

"What has happened?" asked the old colonel.

"Why, nothing, nothing, grandfather."

The old man's memory returned and he was heard muttering: "It is dreadful to lose your boy. I would rather have died before him. And the second—his brother's equal—nothing can have happened to him? Oh, no. The same house could not twice suffer a blow like that." Smiling, he thought of the honors which his younger son was gaining.

Suddenly the sound of military music came up from the street. It drew nearer, and as the beating drums passed the old soldier's window he got up with difficulty, leaned out of the window and saluted the passing regiment. Newspaper boys followed the crowd, shouting, "News of the accident." Gentle hands dragged the old man back—"Go in, grandpa! You are getting cold."—Paris Journal.

Italy's Fight Against Malaria.

Reports from American consular officers in Genoa and Leghorn, prepared in response of inquiries from the United States as to the market in Italy for a remedy for malaria, show that the prevalence of malaria in that kingdom has steadily declined in recent years, mainly due, it is stated, to the energetic measures of the Italian government. Quinine prepared at the State Military Pharmacy at Turin is said by Consul General James A. Smith to be on sale at all government tobacco shops at 4 cents a gram and is distributed gratis to poor patients Consul Frank Deedmeyer writes that in 1911 the number of deaths in Italy caused by malaria was estimated at 3,500 in a total population of over 33,000,000.—Daily Consular and Trade Reports.

Charity Without Pauperism.

A great defect of many charitable schemes is their tendency to pauperize the beneficiaries. This is overcome by one of the methods adopted by the Robert Browning settlement at Vealworth, which supplies boots to poor children. The footgear is handed over in return for the payment by the parents of a small weekly "rent" until the retail price has been covered. After the final payment the boots still remain the property of the settlement, without whose permission they can neither be sold nor pawned.—London Globe.

STRENGTH
Without Overloading The Stomach.

The business man, especially, needs food in the morning that will not overload the stomach, but give mental vigor for the day.

Much depends on the start a man gets each day, as to how he may expect to accomplish the work on hand.

He can't be alert, with a heavy, fried-meat-and-potatoes breakfast requiring a lot of vital energy in digesting it.

A Calif. business man tried to find some food combination that would not overload the stomach in the morning, but that would produce energy.

He writes:

"For years I was unable to find a breakfast food that had nutrition enough to sustain a business man without overloading his stomach, causing indigestion and kindred ailments.

"Being a very busy and also a very nervous man, I decided to give up breakfast altogether. But luckily I was induced to try Grape-Nuts.

"Since that morning I have been a new man; can work without tiring, my head is clear and my nerves strong and quiet.

"I find four teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts with one of sugar and a small quantity of cold milk, is delicious as the cereal part of the morning meal, and invigorates me for the day's business." THE CENTRE REPORTER

THURSDAY, MARCH 13, 1913

DEATHS

David O. Price was born at Centre Hill, September 7, 1827, and passed away at his home near Browntown, Wisconsin, on the third of this month making his age eighty-five years, four months, and twenty-six days. His wife, whose maiden name was Annie Weaver, died in 1874, but there survives four of their ten children, namely, Mrs. Sophia Yeager, Primghar, Iowa; Mrs. Elizabeth Lapp, Mt. Carroll, Illinois; Mrs. Sarah Myers, Fort Lodge, Iowa, and Jeremiah Price, Waddams Grove, Illinois. One sister, Mrs. Charles Lauver, of McConnell, Illinois, also survives.

Mr. Price went west from Centre Hill in 1852, taking his family with him, and making the trip with a wagon and team. On reaching Chicago, which was then but a small place and the surrounding country nothing but frog ponds, his teams stalled, and he was obliged to call for assistance to haul out his wagon. A few years later he purchased a farm of 160 acres near Waddams Grove, Illinois, and here he lived until 1895, when he moved to a farm nearby where he died. His wife's sister, Mrs. Jane Kerr lived with him from the time of the death of his wife.

Mr. Price was the head of five generations; Mrs. Yeager, Mrs. Agnes Phillipps, Mrs. Minnie Thompson, and baby Thompson. He was a man of kind disposition and had many friends. He will be recalled by many of the older inhabitants of Potter township.

Mrs. Ephraim Fisher died at her home in Milesburg, Monday afternoon, of infirmities due to old age. She was a patient at the Bellefonte hospital for a short time prior to her death. Interment was made at Pine Grove Mills, Wednesday afternoon. Rev. L. F. Spangler, of the Lutheran church, officiating. The husband and one daughter, Miss Ella, survives. Mrs. Adam Krumrine, of Tusseyville, and Mrs. Emma Meek, of State College, are surviving sisters of the deceased.

Mrs. Fisher was a member of an old pioneer family about Pine Grove Mills, and was born on the old homestead eighty years ago. Most of her life was spent in that locality. She was a member of the Lutheran church.

Mrs. Mary Magdaline Krebs died at Rock Springs, aged eighty-six years. She was the widow of Henry Krebs, whom she married sixty years ago. Her death occurred at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Barbara Krebs. Her husband died eight years ago but surviving her are the following children: D. H. and Frank B. Krebs, both of Pine Grove Mills; Mrs. Kate Saucerman, of Kansas, and Miss Lizzie, of Altoona. She also leaves one brother, Adam Duck, of Bald Eagle.

Spring Mills.

Merchant John H. Rishel at this writing is not improving any. His condition is quite serious.

A. N. Finkle will about April 1st move his saw mill to near Rising Springs station, to a point east of Gramley's creamery, and will cut the timber on the Allison land.

The Continental Condensed Milk Company, of Mill Hall, claim that their pasteurizing plant at Spring Mills will necessitate the purchasing of three five-ton auto trucks to collect the milk daily from Brush and Penns Valleys. W. O. Gramley, who very satisfactorily represents the company here, informed the writer that a milk condensing plant would in the near future be built here.

Rev. Price, of the Evangelical charge of Spring Mills, is in attendance at the Evangelical Conference in session at Lewisburg. Each of his six congregations in the charge has sent a delegate instructed to secure his return. The delegates are; Mrs. Annie Immel, of Spring Mills; Mrs. Lydia Anna Dunlap, of the Mountain; Mrs. Sadie Weaver, Locust Grove; Mrs. John H. Bair, Swamp; N. W. Weaver, Green Grove; Perry Wingard, Paradise.

Beech

Mrs. W. W. Jamison is on the sick list.

A few of Dolon Decker's men have quit him to work for C. J. Finkle.

Emanuel Confer, living on the Decker farm, will move to Brush Valley this spring.

Mrs. Wm. Ripka and Mrs. Moyer Gentzell were pleasant callers at Solomon Lingle's one day last week.

Breon and Sheesley took the contract of sawing the staves for C. J. Finkle at the Gap, two miles southeast of Spring Mills.

The storm of last week blew down a barn located on George Gentzell's farm. E. Zettle says, "Gee, but I am glad that I wasn't in it then."

F. M. Ackerman, the famous fisherman, will soon be baiting up his hook. He says anybody can catch chubs, but it takes a person who knows how to catch suckers.

It is said that Ralph Ungard probably will be Dolon Decker's right hand man this summer, but it is hard to say who the cook will be. Ralph says he don't care who she is just so she can make those good custards.

TURKISH TITLES.

They Are Added to Persons' Names Instead of Being Prefixed.

Turkish names and titles are sometimes confusing to the ordinary reader, and this explanation from the Turkish embassy at Washington may be of interest. In the first place, our American prefixes "Mr." or "General" become suffixes in Turkish. The mayor of a Turkish city adds to his name Boledie Raisi. Therefore it would not be Mayor John Smith, but Smith Boledie Raisi.

A caliph is a prince of the royal line and "Mohammed's representative," ranking next to the sultan himself in importance. The next title of importance is sheik ul Islam, or head of the Mohammedan faith. Imam is the title by which a priest is originally addressed.

Pasha is the highest title within the gift of the sultan. It is conferred chiefly on men who achieve distinction in arts and letters or in commerce and is more or less common among the great merchants of Turkey or those who under the old regime had a hand in the collection of taxes. The word "bey" attached to the name of a person indicates that the bearer is distinguished for service of the country. The term "effendi" indicates that the man so addressed is higher in birth, breeding or education than the man speaking and is a variable title, depending on the rank of those carrying on a conversation.

The grand vizier, or sadorazam, is the premier of the cabinet and is the highest of government civil officials. The governor of a province is known as vali. This term is added to the name instead of being prefixed.—Indianapolis News.

SINGING MOTHERS.

They came to me in a dream—those singing mothers. A long, slow procession of shadowy forms, beautiful as rainbows and as wonderful, singing a strange haunting melody full of mystery. First came troops of girl mothers, clasping their little babes with a tenderness that was half fear and with wide, inquiring eyes filled with holy light and the consciousness of the deepest realization of life. Then came strong mothers of youth, leading happy faced children and confident with a sense of power, buoyant with hope and radiant with promise. Last of all came silver mothers of men, leaning on their stalwart sons and, though bowed with years, yet gloriously young in spirit, hallowed by memories and glowing with the victory of achievement. And I, a mother, watching these pass by and listening to their haunting music, felt as never before the divine significance of motherhood and all the hidden meanings in the word "singing."

All this is music in a marvelous mood, but there is no music on earth more appealing or more far reaching than the voice of a mother singing to her little ones. No audience ever listened with keener rapture to any prima donna than that little group gathered in the twilight hour at a mother's knee. It is her dearest joy at that time to put into music all the sacredness of motherhood and the happiness of childhood, to teach and to charm and to tune the hearts of her children.—Anne P. L. Field in Craftsman.

Wide Apart.

It is told us that two old schoolmates met recently. It had been fifteen years since their last meeting, but the recognition was mutual. One was sleek, well fed, well shaven, well dressed. The other was rather thin, rather seedy.

"Well, well," exclaimed the prosperous one; "what are you doing now?"

"I am an actor."

"Indeed? Well, I'm a banker. And you are on the stage? Dear me! It's been ten years since I was in a theater."

"You've got nothing on me. It's been longer than that since I was in a bank."

Then they parted, each thinking a bit less of the other than he had thought before the meeting.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Solons In an Uproar.

Some years ago the Spanish cabinet decided to take legal proceedings against certain members of Parliament who were suspected of misusing public money. The opposition resolved at all costs to prevent this, and for forty hours on end they kept up a most amazing uproar. They cheered and shouted, and sang litanies in chorus. The effect of the latter performance was extraordinary. One deputy would loudly intone a verse, all his friends chanted the response, and so they went on for nearly two days and nights until a truce was proclaimed.—Pearson's Weekly.

Followed Instructions.

Mudge—This watch has been stopped for two or three days. Jeweler—Lem me see it. There is nothing the matter with it except that it has not been wound. Mudge—I thought maybe that was it. I remember you told me to wind it up just before I went to bed, and I haven't been to bed for three nights.

Mrs. George Weaver is visiting her brother, Clymer Stover, at Lewistown, and brother-in-law, John Grenoble, at Yeagertown.

Mrs. T. C. Weaver and Mrs. William Wolfe spent a day last week at the Chapel, at the home of the former lady's parents, Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Bowersox.

Ray Stover and Nellie Burd, returned from Akron, Ohio, after a few weeks stay among their friends. They cannot get done praising the town and saying how nice a visit they had.

Messrs. Charles and Ray Musser, of Aaronsburg, both of whom are school teachers in Haines township, attended a meeting of the school directors held here on Saturday. County Superintendent D. O. Etters was also in attendance. The former Mr. Musser was accompanied to town by his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. William Guisewite had a surprise birthday party for their daughter May, on her fifteenth birthday. The invited guests were as follows; Annie Eisenhauer, Helen Bower, Martha Bower, Rhoda Bower, Verna Stover, Florence Johnson, Martha Haines, Florence Mensch, Marion Eisenhauer, and Mary Jane Stricker. After enjoying several hours in games and music, refreshments consisting of various dainties and fruits were served. The entire evening was spent in a most enjoyable way.

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the only true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by all dealers. adv.

Orders now booked for Hatching Eggs
from my heavy-laying strain of
S. C. Golden Buff Leghorns

With seven years careful mating and breeding I have produced a strain of Buffs that I am satisfied are hard to equal as heavy winter layers and also for fine plumage.

PEN NO. 1 is mated up with 18 solid buff yearling hens, headed with cock bird that won prize at Pittsburgh and Ohio poultry shows.

PEN NO. 2 is mated up with 12 two-year-old hens that are well bred; headed with fine cockrel.

PEN NO. 3 is mated up with 16 pullets and yearlings that have made a fine egg record this winter. This pen is headed with fine large cock bird that is solid buff in color.

Children are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers. adv.
